Re Bureau routing slip to Buffalo, 6/21/76, with enclosure dated 6/15/76 (u)

The 1/7/76 city edition issue of the Buffalo Evening News, a daily newspaper published in Buffalo, New York, on page 32, contained an article captioned, "Says Wilson Lies About Irish Aid." That article further reads as follows: (u)

"On Dec. 18 your newspaper reported a statement from British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, which is the vilest of lies about the Irish Northern Aid Committee. The Northern Aid Committee has existed solely as a vehicle to marshal relief funds. No monies have been sent to the North for any illegal purpose whatsoever. (u)

"The men of the Provisional IRA are very much as patriotic, and more so, as were the men of 1916. The single greatest factor "prolonging the agony of Ireland" is the presence of British forces on Irish soil without a commitment of withdrawal. (u)

ReBucal to New York 11/2/76.

Enclosed for New York is a Xerox copy of a U. S. Customs Service, Department of Treasury, letter dated 10/22/76 directed to the Director, FBI.

The enclosed letter inquires as to whether the FBI wishes to participate in a U. S. Customs Service organized conference in New York, concerning the establishment of a "task force" at New York, which will be directed against possible Irish Republican Army activities in the New York area.

FBIHQ authorizes participation in this conference by SAC, New York on 11/5/76 at 9:30 a.m. at Room 508, 6 World Trade Center, New York City. U. S. Customs Service Headquarters, Washington, D. C., has been advised that our New York Office will participate in their conference.

Upon completion of the conference, New York submit recommendations as to whether New York should participate in this "task force" or whether liaison contact would be more appropriate.

On 11/5/76, SAs [redacted] of the NYO attended a conference sponsored by US Customs Service, NYC. The purpose of this conference was to explore the possibilities of US Customs Service, BATF, and the FBI in the formation of a "task force," which would be directed against possible Irish Republican Army (IRA) activities in the NY area.

After a thorough discussion of all aspects of the Irish movement in NY, the NYO is of the opinion that the Bureau's interests would best be served if it maintained that of a liaison-type role with both Customs and BATF. It should be noted that BATF concurred with the opinion of the NYO

San Francisco indices contained the following information on The Rising:

The Rising is the newsletter of the Irish
Community Support Committee (ICSC), 1215 Noe St., San Francisco which is self-described as having been "formed as a response to the Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco to investigate the activities of Irish Americans in supporting the struggle in Ireland. The ICSC is a membership organization open to all-Irish, Irish Americans, and others wanting to oppose the harassment and abridgment of Constitutional rights growing out of this British inspired witch hunt."

Copies of above were furnished to Legat, London.

Based on information contained in San Francisco 105-30699, it appears that the ICSC is now defunked and has been since 10/73.

San Francisco indices also reflected that the listed address for The Rising is 20 Liberty St., San Francisco, 94110. Current City Directories fail to reflect 20 Liberty St. as being an address for The Rising.

San Francisco has no information that the ICSC or The Rising are still in operation.

San Francisco indices contain the following information regarding the S.R.A.F.:

S.R.A.F. - IWW is the Socialist Revolutionary Anarchist Federation-International Workers World. Basically, an organization for expression and discussion of ideas and actions of anarchist - communism in a form for all the liberation left. This organization has also been referred to as the Student Radical Anarchist Family. For further information S.R.A.F. refer to enclosed LHM on [REDACTED]. There has been no information to date, which indicates that S.R.A.F. is still functioning.

PROGRESSIVE LABOR PARTY (PLP)

"The New York Times" city edition, Tuesday, April 20, 1965, Page 27, reported that a new party of "revolutionary socialism" was formally founded on April 18, 1965, under the name of the PLP which had been known as the Progressive Labor Movement.

According to the article, "The Progressive Labor Movement was founded in 1962, by MILTON ROSEN and MORTIMER SCHEER after they were expelled from the Communist Party of the United States for assertedly following the Chinese Communist line."

A source advised on June 3, 1968, that the PLP held its Second National Convention in New York City, May 31 to June 2, 1968, at which time the PLP reasserted its objective of the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism. This is to be accomplished through the Party's over-all revolutionary strategy of raising the consciousness of the people and helping to provide ideological leadership in the working class struggle for state power.

The source also advised that at the Second National Convention MILTON ROSEN was unanimously re-elected National Chairman of the PLP and LEVI LAUB, FRED JEROME, JARED ISRAEL, WILLIAM EPTON, JACOB ROSEN, JEFFREY GORDON, and WALTER LINDER were elected as the National Committee to lead the PLP until the next convention.

The PLP publishes "Progressive Labor", a bimonthly magazine; "World Revolution", a quarterly periodical; and "Challenge-Desafio", a monthly newspaper.

The April 1969, issue of "Challenge-Desafio" sets forth that "Challenge is dedicated to the peoples fight for a new way of life---where the working men and women control their own homes and factories; where they themselves make up the entire government on every level and control the schools, courts, police, and all institutions, which are now used to control them."

Source advised on May 8, 1969, that the PLP utilizes an address of General Post Office Box 808, Brooklyn, New York, and also utilizes an office in Room 617, 1 Union Square West, New York, New York.

STUDENTS FOR A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY (SDS)

A source has advised that the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), as presently regarded, came into being at a founding convention held June 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan. From an initial posture of "participatory democracy" the line of the national leadership has revealed a growing Marxist-Leninist adherence which currently calls for the building of a revolutionary youth movement. Concurrently, the program of SDS has evolved from civil rights struggles to an anti-Vietnam war stance to an advocacy of a militant anti-imperialist position. China, Vietnam and Cuba are regarded as the leaders of worldwide struggles against United States imperialism whereas the Soviet Union is held to be revisionist and also imperialist.

At the June 1969, SDS National Convention, Progressive Labor Party (PLP) forces in the organization were expelled. As a result, the National Office (NO) group maintained its National Headquarters at 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, and the PLP faction set up headquarters in Cambridge, Massachusetts. This headquarters subsequently moved to Boston. Each group elected its own national offices, which include three national secretaries and a National Interim Committee of eight. Both the NO forces and the PLP forces claim to be the true SDS. Both groups also print their versions of "New Left Notes" which sets forth the line and the program of the particular faction. The NO version of "New Left Notes" was recently printed under the title "The Fire Next Time" to achieve a broader mass appeal.

Two major factions have developed internally within the NO group, namely, the Weatherman or Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM) I faction and the RYM II faction. Weatherman is action-oriented upholding CASTRO's position that the duty of revolutionaries is to make revolution. Weatherman is regarded by RYM-II as an adventurist elitist faction which denies the historical role of the working class as the base for revolution. RYM II maintains that revolution, although desired, is not possible under present conditions, hence emphasizes organizing and raising the political consciousness of the working class upon whom they feel successful revolution depends. Although disclaiming control and domination by the Communist Party, USA, leaders in these two factions have in the past proclaimed themselves to be communists and to follow the precepts of a Marxist-Leninist philosophy, along pro-Chinese communist lines.

A second source has advised that the PLP faction which is more commonly known as the Worker-Student Alliance is dominated and controlled by members of the PLP, who are required to identify themselves with the pro-Chinese Marxist-Leninist philosophy of the PLP. They advocate that an alliance between workers and students is vital to the bringing about of a revolution in the United States.

SDS regions and university and college chapters, although operating under the outlines of the SDS National Constitution, are autonomous in nature and free to carry out independent policy reflective of local conditions. Because of this autonomy internal struggles reflecting the major factional interests of SDS have occurred at the chapter level since the beginning of the 1967-70 school year.

On February 28, 1977, a review of the files of the New York Office (NYO) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) revealed the following information:

In the July 18, 1970 edition of the New York (NY) published (Irish American) newspaper the Advocate, an article reported Pat Shields was to speak on Radio WTAE, a commercial radio station on Long Island, NY, at 4:00 PM on July 19, 1970. The article stated that Shields would talk about Irish matters on a show called "Celi Time" which is directed by Tom Connolly, who was born Connemara, Ireland.

IRA Plot to Oust De Valera Broken Up

By United Press

DUBLIN, July 12—A plot to overthrow Premier Eamon De Valera's Eire government by force has been smashed with the arrest of 40 members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, it was disclosed today.

The would-be rebels were among 400 IRA members released from the Curragh Internment Camp at the end of the European war.

Acting on information that the IRA men were planning a wholesale assassination campaign against government and police officials, flying squadrons of the Irish Criminal Investigation Department rounded up the 40 leaders, most of them within a few days after their release from Curragh.

De Valera

Sean MacCool, commander in chief of the outlaw army, was rearrested as he was about to board a train for his home in Mayo only two days after his release.

The fate of the other 360 IRA men freed was still uncertain.

CIE spokesmen said Police Supt. John Gantley, who is primarily responsible for curbing the IRA, has received numerous death threats and has been living under armed guard for three years.

The 400 IRA members were interned at the outbreak of the war when it was feared they were preparing to help the Germans against Britain and thereby jeopardize Eire's neutrality.

De Valera Gets an '18B' To Check the I.R.A.

'Daily Sketch' Special Correspondent in Eire

DAIL EIREANN yesterday reaffirmed the Government's power to intern without trial. By 46 votes to 27 the House agreed to prolong the Emergency Powers Act which has been used for the last five years by Mr. de Valera's Government to deal with armed political plotters.

Although Mr. de Valera had asserted he wanted power under the Bill to deal with revolutionary elements, he made no direct reference yesterday to the I.R.A. "death list" disclosures in THE DAILY SKETCH.

The only direct reference to this latest I.R.A. move was made by Mr. J. M. Dillon, Independent Deputy for Monaghan, who attacked the powers given to the Government in the Bill. He said: "They are unnecessary to meet such incidents."

Referring to THE DAILY SKETCH disclosures Mr. Dillon said: "If people outside this country think that threats of this kind against the life of the Taoiseach (Mr. de Valera) or his Ministers are calculated to throw this Dail into such a state of chaos as to induce them to suspend the Constitution and bring in emergency legislation, they are making a great mistake."

Shock To Eire People

The House was 100 per cent. behind the Government in meeting this threat, said Mr. Dillon.

In his reply Mr. de Valera said individuals must live under the regulations which the community made for the well-being of each individual in it.

"The alternative," he declared, "is anarchy."

The apparent resurgence of the I.R.A. has come as a shock to Eire people who had believed for several years that the organisation had been smashed by the Government's Special (S) Branch Police.

The "S" men had rounded up over 400 leaders and rank and file of the organisation and interned them in the "Glasshouse" (formerly known as "Tintown") camp at the Curragh. Since VE-Day internees, who, it was alleged by Government spokesmen, have been in contact with Nazi agents, have been released a dozen or so at a time.

De Valera Gets an '18B' to Fight I.R.A.

A number of the leaders who received long-term prison sentences are, however, still in jail.

Among them is Stephen Hayes, former "Chief of Staff" of the organisation. Hayes figured in the sensational "split" in the I.R.A. just after war broke out. He was "court martialled" by his former colleagues and sentenced to death.

After a month of confinement in a lonely County Wicklow house, Hayes broke free and, gun in hand and with chains hanging from his wrist, gave himself up.

He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude by a special criminal court consisting of Eire Army officers.

Shortly afterwards a long printed document, alleged to be a confession by Hayes that he had attempted to break up the organisation and sell out to the Government, was widely circulated by the new command of the I.R.A. Hayes swore this had been extracted from him by torture.

Stephen Hayes, it is now revealed, is sixth on the death list which was compiled at the recent series of "courts martial."

Yesterday "S" men were still trying to get further information about the "courts martial" and were compiling a list of those who took part in them. They have re-interned several I.R.A. men, including Sean McColl, a Donegal man. Nine others are in Maryborough Prison.

When the Dail adjourned yesterday Mr. de Valera had still not had time to make any further statement on his "Eire is a republic" declaration.

I.R.A. SENTENCE DE VALERA TO DEATH

Summary Execution Verdict At Secret 'Courts Martial'

POLICE HUNT TERRORISTS

'Daily Sketch' Special Correspondent in Eire
I.R.A. terrorists have "sentenced" De Valera to death. In secret hideouts outlaw leaders have held "courts martial" and solemnly tried De Valera, Government ministers, police chiefs and prominent citizens.

In each case the "court martial" returned the same verdict—"summary execution."

The verdicts of these courts have now been served on the "accused men." A simple foolscap sheet of paper has been delivered on the "condemned" with the words "OGLAIGH na h EIREANN (Irish Republican Army).

This document then states the "enemies of the people" have been tried by court martial in their absence and sentenced to summary execution.

A list is then given with a priority number opposite each.

Number One in the list is De Valera.

Others among the 14 named include Mr. G. Boland (Minister of Justice), a barrister who once prosecuted I.R.A. men, and a high officer in the Government's special political branch of Police.

De Valera Freed Them

The astonishing feature of this is that the paper is the official water-marked paper of the Eire Army.

Last night police, with Tommy-guns at the ready, were rounding up known I.R.A. men.

The Irish Republican Army, outlawed terrorist organisation, has been out of the news since the infamous 1939 handbag bombing in England.

De Valera released from internment many of its leaders only a month ago. Now De Valera has announced his intention to retain his power to intern without trial.

Placating I.R.A.

He came to this decision after evidence had reached the Eire Department of Justice of the "courts martial."

Meantime the Eire Army is trying to trace the source through which its official notepaper reached the I.R.A. chiefs.

It is considered possible in Dublin that Mr. De Valera's "We are a republic" statement in the Daily yesterday was made to placate the I.R.A.

Connolly's Light Guides Irish Labor

By ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN

EASTER WEEK, 1916, three decades ago, James Connolly, Socialist, industrial unionist, Irish nationalist, was shot to death by a British firing squad in a Dublin prison yard. His body was buried in quicklime, where none can mark the spot, or place a funeral wreath. He was Commander-in-Chief of the Irish Citizens' Army, which organized an uprising against British rule to establish an Irish Republic.

Padriac Pearse, president of the short-lived republic, and all who signed the Irish declaration of independence, Sheehy Skeffington, liberal editor, who gave first aid to wounded men; McDonough, the poet, had been executed. Connolly was lost. Shot in both legs, unable to stand, he was carried out, propped up, tied to an armchair to face his executioners.

All freedom-loving Irish men and women revere the name of James Connolly. He is one of the countless martyrs who gave their lives for Irish freedom.

For nearly 800 years, every generation had its uprising against the British yoke. At the threshold of England stood this eternal challenge to the Empire—a determined people who demand their political independence, their own language, customs and religion. They suffered persecution, imprisonment, violence, famine. Their land, owned by the absentee, was changed from food production to cattle grazing, the produce of their country were (and still are) exported while they starved. Millions were driven to immigrate—to the United States, Australia, Canada. A century ago the population of Ireland was four times greater than today's scant two millions. The Irish landlords and capitalists, like their contemptible counterparts in all colonial countries, were ever Britain's allies.

As a young man James Connolly became a Socialist. He saw clearly it was necessary to establish a republic, but that it must be a workers' republic, not an exchange of external tyrants for domestic ones. He was fearless in his criticism of British imperialism and Irish capitalism alike.

VIEWS ON RELIGION

He was a Catholic. But he denounced clericals who identified themselves with the enemies or who betrayed the people. He made a clear distinction between religion and the church's political organization. It would help many Irish-American trades unionists to read his uncompromising and logical analysis of the role of labor in Irish history and to follow his advice in the separation of religion from trades unions and political struggles.

James Connolly emphasized the slogan, "We take our religion from our church but not our politics." When there were charges of the Irish being pro-German in World War I, he had a streamer placed across Liberty Hall, headquarters of the Transport Workers Union of which he was the organizer, "Neither King nor Kaiser—but Ireland."

EIGHT YEARS IN U. S.

Connolly spent about eight years in the United States. In 1902 he toured the country for the Socialist Labor Party. He was an organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World (I. W. W.) He was blacklisted in Elizabethport, N. J., trying to organize the Singer Sewing Machine Co. He lived in the Bronx in dire poverty. When McClellan boasted, "There may be Jewish, German, Russian Socialists, but thank God, there are no Irish Socialists!" Connolly, my father and others forthwith organized "The Irish Socialist Federation." Sister Kathie was secretary.

Connolly published a little paper called "The Harp" to educate the Irish to Socialism, and sold it himself at meetings. I first spoke with James Connolly in Newark, N. J., at Washington Park about 1907 in defense of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners, then on trial for the lives. In 1910 he was called to Ireland. I will never forget this gentle man as he sat in our flat in the South Bronx with my baby, Fred, on his knee. He came to bid us goodbye.

On his return, he and James Larkin organized the Irish Transport Workers Union. British workers sent boatloads of food to their general strike. Connolly pointed out what international workers' solidarity could do. He was a Marxist. He was an internationalist. He would have been a Communist if he had lived. Or that I am certain.

Ireland partitioned by British imperialist cunning, isolated from it," cut off from the anti-fascist movement, cut off from the anti-fascist liberation movements of other lands, where she rightly belongs poisoned against the only Workers' Republic in the world today—the Soviet Union—is a sorry sight. But she will rise again. Exiled Irish workers in the Connolly Clubs of England will help revive in this "most distressful country" the ideal of James Connolly kept alive there today by Communists and trades unionists.

Leader Dies After Hunger-Strike SUPPRESSED SECRET OF IRA REVEALED

By Sunday Dispatch Reporter

DRAMA of torture and terrorist plots and counter-plots, with a background of vengeance exacted by the banned, but not disbanded, Irish Republican Army, lie behind the death yesterday of Sean McCaughey, 33-year-old adjutant of the Irish Republican Army, after a 22-day hunger-strike in Maryborough Prison. He had been on a thirst-strike for 17 days

A daring, cunning, and deadly marksman, McCaughey carried a host of secrets of the extremists in Ireland to his grave. But the story can now be told of a secret chapter in his career which is typical of the underground Republican movement in Ireland.

In the autumn of 1941 Dublin noontide saunterers were astonished to see a gaunt, unkempt man, chains dangling from his wrists and ankles, a heavy Service revolver clutched in one hand. Hobbling along the footpath, he gasped: "Take me to the police station. I am Stephen Hayes."

It was indeed Stephen Hayes, king-pin of the I.R.A.—a man with a price on his head, the most-sought leader of the small band of Republican extremists. He babbled incoherently of having been kidnapped by the I.R.A., of which he was the leader, on an accusation of having betrayed its secrets.

Key To The Mystery

At this time C.I.D. men in Dublin were engaged in a nation-wide hunt for big shots in the I.R.A. They arrested Sean McCaughey in the hope of obtaining information. McCaughey, however, kept silent.

But a detective in searching him found a small key entirely different from any they had ever seen. They tried it on the locks which fettered Hayes, and found it fitted perfectly. The big secret was out.

McCaughy was put on trial, convicted, and sentenced to death by shooting. This was later commuted to a life sentence.

Stephen Hayes was the star witness at the trial. He narrated how McCaughey, his gaoler—in order to extract a confession of his alleged treachery—tortured him from June until September, when he escaped.

He told of endless beatings and cruelties, of midnight interrogations by hissing voices, and of threats to shoot him.

Hayes in turn was sentenced to imprisonment, which was interpreted as protective custody, for his life was forfeit and the I.R.A. are ruthless.

News Suppressed

A few days later Eire was electrified by news of a manifesto issued by the I.R.A., containing a "voluntary confession" by Hayes. The manifesto alleged that Hayes was a spy for the Eire Government.

Eire was in the grip of the Press censorship, the instrument used to enforce neutrality. Not a line of the Hayes confession was allowed to appear in the newspapers or be sent out of the country, and in time it ceased to be a nine-days wonder.

What was the secret behind McCaughey's self-imposed slow suicide? It is thought that he felt he had failed when charged with keeping Hayes in safe custody and decided to sacrifice his life. So ends one of the strangest chapters in the history of the I.R.A.

Three sisters and a brother were with McCaughey when he died. At the inquest the coroner refused to allow questions on the treatment of the prisoner before hunger-striking. The relatives walked out.

The jury returned a verdict that McCaughey died from heart failure following a lack of food and fluid, and added a rider that conditions were not what they should be in the prison.

Sean Russell To Be Allowed To Go Abroad

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UP).—Sean Russell, commander-in-chief of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, will be allowed to leave the United States voluntarily, the immigration service said today.

Russell, whose passport is held by Detroit immigration authorities, was arrested in that city shortly before the American visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. Authorities said his visa had expired and that he was in this country illegally.

He was released on $5,000 bond and although his precise whereabouts is unknown, it is believed that he is still in this country. Authorities said his passport would be returned to him if he agrees to leave immediately, turning over the passport to the American consulate in his port of arrival abroad.

The $5,000 bond then would be lifted automatically.

Republican Army Is Believed

NORTH HAS STRONG FORCE

Economic Peace With Britain
Has Brought Improvement in Feeling in Dublin

North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.
DUBLIN, April 2—As far as can be gathered by conversations with the man in the street and representatives of the various shades of political belief there is little fear either in North or South Ireland of any serious danger from the Irish Republican Army.

The general opinion seems to be that there is no great public feeling behind the I. R. A. movement and that members of the organization do not compare in numbers, courage or idealism with the men who took part in the Easter rising of 1916.

It is to be remembered, however, that an Irishman's actions are unpredictable and that general opinion in Ireland is hard to ascertain with any degree of accuracy.

The situation is different from that of 1916. There is no British garrison to fight against and any revolt against their own government, if that were contemplated, would not have the support of the people. That leaves only the possibility of an attack or raid on Northern Ireland, which is considered unlikely because of the strength of the military police forces there.

It was stated by a republican supporter of the I. R. A. that the leaders had declared their war was with England and that there would be no bloodshed between the two Irelands. He pointed out that no bombings had occurred in Scotland or Wales.

Another informant, not connected with any party, said distress in the congested areas of the west, where large families are common and young men find it difficult to get jobs, might drive recruits into any organization that offered an outlet for their energy.

It is generally agreed that the economic peace made by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Prime Minister Eamon de Valera has brought tremendous improvement in the feeling of the Irish toward Britain, and some among them Catholic priests—regret the British Government found it necessary to execute two I. R. A. members at Birmingham.

Sympathy for the executed men, however, seems more apparent than real, and they seem almost completely forgotten. They certainly do not seem to occupy the same place in the public mind as the "martyrs" of old.

On the surface Dublin looks on the European war with detachment. There is no blackout. Only gasoline is rationed, and offerings of butter and sugar in the restaurants and hotels seem lavish after the dearth in Britain and Belfast. Interest in the war seems slight, and even Finland's struggle for freedom failed to excite more than mild sympathy.

Here and there, however, may be found signs that the world is not at peace and that Ireland is not altogether easy. There are excavations for air-raid shelters and on O'Connell Street is a first-aid station. There is, so one is told, an extremely strict censorship of press, mails and telegraph.

The government has taken extraordinary measures to deal with possible disturbances, including the Emergency Powers Act and an amendment to the Offenses Against the State Act which invalidates the Habeas Corpus Act for the time being in certain offenses.

Gasoline is rationed severely. Stories that German submarines are fueling on the west coast can be dismissed as fantastic because there is not enough fuel in the whole west to supply a single Uboat.

IRISH TROUBLES ON MINOR SCALE

But the I. R. A. in Addition to Nuisance Value, May Be Doing Espionage Work

By TANIA LONG

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 5—Renewal of acts of violence and terrorism by the Irish Republican Army in Northern Ireland is not to be taken too seriously. Against the background of the World War the sound of gun duels, bomb explosions and running fights between self-styled revolutionaries and the police is feeble. Even against the narrower background of Ireland itself the recent I. R. A. activities are relatively unimportant.

The situation in Ireland—Northern Ireland as well as Eire—has been ticklish since the war began. The causes lie deep and are many. A few of them are serious and will not be eradicated easily. The main cause of dissension with the British is the "partition" of the island, which has never been recognized by President de Valera of Eire and his adherents living in Northern Ireland, nor by the I. R. A. This grievance is likely to exist for at least another generation or until Ireland is united under one "free" government. Add to this the fact that the major part of Ireland is improperly protected against a possible invasion and it is small wonder that the British have been worried by even such sporadic outbreaks as last week's

The situation, however, has not reached a dangerous stage even now when bombs are being used against the police. This is true because the large majority of the people in both sections of the island are not in sympathy with terrorist activities—even against the British—and because the governments of both Northern and Southern Ireland have taken strict measures to frustrate attempted uprisings by the I. R. A.

I. R. A. as It Is Today

A few facts regarding the present I. R. A. will fit its activities more clearly into the general picture of Ireland. The organization is made up mainly of three types: youthful malcontents who have never found their place in life; mere fanatics who believe a German victory would "free" Ireland; real traitors who are in the game either because they like the feel of money or because they are confirmed Nazis.

On the fringe of the organization are its sympathizers who, while unwilling to take an active part in violence, help the outlaws by hiding them, storing ammunition for them and acting as spies for them against the police. The few thousand who always hide and do not demonstrate when the authorities enforce some anti-I. R. A. measure should not be considered I. R. A. sympathizers. They are merely expressing a traditional characteristic of being "agin" something, preferably the authorities, and are just as likely to turn "agin" the I. R. A. when it does something of which they disapprove.

Danger of Espionage

Probably the most dangerous side of I. R. A. activities is espionage in favor of the Germans. There has been evidence in the last few years to show that at least some of the I. R. A. have had close connections with Nazis who provide the hard cash necessary to pay the outlaws and who furnish guidance in a work of sabotage and spying. There is a German legation in Dublin and there are undoubtedly other German agencies which are carefully camouflaged and from which the real espionage is directed.

Any popular sympathy which the I. R. A. might have gained in Ireland died a quick death when the organization took to bomb throwing and shootings in which innocent people—that is, not the authorities—were injured and killed. President de Valera, himself a former leader of the old I. R. A. which fought bloody battles against the British, has shown the greatest severity in dealing with the present organization. He has outlawed them, jailed all the seasoned leaders he has been able to capture and imposed stiff penalties on any one who has any connection with the I. R. A. as it is constituted today.

OUTLAW I.R.A. CHIEF
'WARNS' AMERICA

Outlawed I. R. A. Leader 'Warns' America Against War With Ireland

By The United Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 24—Hugh McAteer, Chief of Staff of the outlawed Irish Republican Army who has a price of £3,000 on his head, made an audacious appearance before a meeting of armed I. R. A. men tonight and warned the United States that its troops stationed in Northern Ireland were likely to become involved in hostilities with the Irish Republic.

The I. R. A. men seized control of a movie house in the nationalist area of Belfast to hold a meeting commemorating the Easter rebellion of 1916. McAteer, for whom the police have been searching since his escape from Belfast prison in January, appeared with James Steele, one of three men who broke jail with him.

Both read statements and disappeared after the audience had stood in a one-minute silent tribute to the "men who died for Ireland." At the command: "Dismiss," the I. R. A. men left the house.

The seizure of the theatre was accomplished with Hollywood effects. The film suddenly stopped and the lights went on. The audience saw a number of heavily armed men spread around the hall and standing at exits.

McAteer walked in briskly while the I. R. A. men snapped to the audience: "Sit still and listen."

McAteer, in his statement, protested against "the presence of American troops on Irish soil of a large number of American troops."

"All shades of Nationalist opinion have joined in protest against this invasion of our rights," McAteer said. "We warn the Government of the United States the resumption of hostilities between the Irish Republic and Great Britain almost inevitably would mean that American troops also would become involved and that America, champion of democracy and sponsor of the Atlantic Charter, would find herself engaged in Britain in waging a war of imperial aggression and conquest against the Irish people."

Immediately after the meeting had disbanded and police learned of it, they cordoned off nationalist district in an effort to find the men who had participated. Police in Belfast had been reinforced from country areas yesterday against such a possible break and strong forces were stationed to cemeteries containing I. R. A. graves, over which ceremonies had been held in previous years at Easter.

Early this morning police sealed an I. R. A. arms dump. It was believed that the weapons were being stored for an Easter Sunday outbreak commemorating the 1916 rebellion. Some arrests were made.

In the 1916 rebellion 106 British troops were killed by the city army, fifteen of whose members were executed. The fight broke out in Dublin on Easter Sunday and lasted a week.

Two Quit Cabinet

BELFAST, April 24 (AP)—Two Cabinet members and four Parliamentary Secretaries resigned today, precipitating an Easter crisis for the government of Premier John Miller Andrews.

The two Ministers who resigned were Sir Basil Brooke, Deputy Premier, and Attorney General James MacDermott.

Their resignations followed criticism of Mr. Andrews's government by members of his own Unionist party, who contend that it is "lagging." There is to be a party meeting April 28 to weigh the crisis.

IRA man shot in street

John Lawrence Griffith, 28-year-old I.R.A. man, who escaped from Mountjoy Prison last November, was shot dead in a fight with the police in Dublin yesterday.

Griffith was cycling towards the centre of the city when he was followed by a police car. He opened fire, hitting the car, and the police fired back.

In March 1942 he was sentenced to ten years' penal servitude for attempting to shoot a police officer.

Express Staff Reporter.

BELFAST, Tuesday. — To-night as "Lights out" was signalled in Belfast Jail, Hugh McAteer, 29-year-old, self-styled I.R.A. chief of staff, went to bed for the 15th day without food. He has vowed to hunger strike "unto death."

With him are 28 other I.R.A. convicts serving varying sentences for criminal acts.

McAteer was weak physically to-night but strong enough mentally once more to refuse solid food. Like the 28 others, he drinks water, but shows signs of strain.

He has a daily medical examination. No forcible feeding has been adopted because the prison governor, on the instructions of the Ministry of Home Affairs, is ignoring the strike.

DREW LOTS

It began over protests by the convicts about bad food and unhealthy conditions.

McAteer and his right hand man, James Steele, were chosen to start it. When there was a call for seven more hunger-strikers, lots were drawn among the I.R.A. prisoners.

Five of them gave up last week. Two others went to hospital seriously ill, and yesterday 23 more prisoners joined the strike. Today another refused his food. According to McAteer's friends, another 32 are ready to join in. In Parliament today Mr. William Lowry, K.C., Minister of Home Affairs, refused an inquiry.

Letters To The Editor

Communications must carry the writer's name and address. Though pen names are permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters should be held to not more than 200 words. They are subject to condensation.

Irish Point Of View

Some three or four months ago the Minister of Eire, Mr. Robert Brennan, was called to our State Department and told that they had received a report that some 3000 Japanese were in Eire in disguise, and Mr. Brennan was asked to obtain information from his government with respect to this report. On communicating with his government, Mr. Brennan was immediately informed that there were just three Japanese in all Eire, two attached to the consulate, and a shipwrecked sailor. Returning to the State Department with this information, Mr. Brennan gave it to one of the immediate and more realistic subordinates of Secretary Hull. That gentleman expressed amazement and regret at the stupidity of even communicating such a report to Mr. Brennan. Without directly saying so, he implied the report emanated not from the undoubtedly able Army and Navy Intelligence, but from a certain alphabetical "office" of alleged "intelligence," which it appears has made other almost equally fantastic reports.

The significance of this incident is the greater because since our Government's note of March 10, Mr. Brennan has several times been assured by Secretary Hull himself that the department has no information of a single actual instance of espionage originating in Eire. It is also significant that when Mr. Churchill, in connection with his speech of last week in the House of Commons on the subject, was directly asked whether the British government knew of any such instance, he replied that he preferred to confine himself to general statements, and stated merely that it would be catastrophic if such an incident should occur.

Even as Americans in wartime, we are concerned with the Irish point of view insofar as it may affect the interests of this country. It will hardly be denied that, if we cannot have the active participation of Ireland on the side of the Allies, it is certainly in our interest to have at least Ireland's friendly neutrality. Were our Government more realistic, it would realize that it is one of the seven wonders of the war that Ireland has remained unquestionably friendly neutral despite every provocation from our Government to be otherwise.

McAteer gets bacon, egg

Express Staff Reporter

BELFAST, Friday.—Hugh McAteer, 29-year-old I.R.A. chief, had his first real meal in Belfast Jail hospital this morning. He ate a small portion of bacon and egg.

He was asked what he would like. With 30 days without food behind him except for some gruel last night, he said he would like bacon and egg.

James Steele, his adjutant-general, also took bacon and egg. The hunger-strikers are expected to be back to normal condition within a few days.

They made no secret of their reason for ending the fast. They did not want to die.

The Ulster Ministry of Home Affairs said that no concessions whatever had been won by the strike.

Sidelights of the War

IRA Link to Nazis Charged

London, March 31 (AP).—Commons was told today that a document captured by the Ulster constabulary showed that the outlawed Irish Republican Army planned to cooperate with the enemy and was among evidence given Prime Minister Eamon de Valera by United States Minister David Gray to support the request for closing Axis consulates in Eire.

Prof. Douglas Lloyd Savory, Conservative member from Belfast, said the document included complete maps of bays and water depths along the whole coast of northern Ireland.

"I am not disclosing secret information I have, but I have an immense amount of material to show the danger of these enemy agents being maintained in Ireland," the university professor said.

Swiss Executed

New York, March 31 (AP).—Maj. Ernst Hans Pfister of the Swiss army was executed before a firing squad on his conviction of treason, the Swiss radio said today in a broadcast heard by the United States Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service.

Irish Republican Army Warns of Ulster Reprisal

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 5 (AP)—The outlawed Irish Republican Army threatened today to shoot a British soldier if a civilian was killed by security forces in Northern Ireland.

"As from now," a spokesman said, "our official policy is to hit back against British troops. If necessary we will kidnap a number of them and if any civilians are shot by the British we will do the same."

The statement was the Irish Republican Army's answer to the new "get tough" policy ordered by Gen. Sir Ian Free-land against rioters and gasoline bombers who have terrorized Belfast since Easter.

LONDON, April 5 (AP)—Defense Minister Denis Healey said today that more troops would be added to the 7,000 already on duty in Northern Ireland if the situation worsened.

A newspaper report alleging a "split" in the I.R.A. under the control of the organisation's Provisional Army Council was strongly denied in a statement issued yesterday on behalf of the Council said their Belfast unit was "among the most loyal, disciplined and efficient in the whole country".

"Allegations in the article that people are in certain positions in the I.R.A. are plain felon-setting and deserve the greatest contempt," says the statement.

I.R.A. Fact or Fiction?

The Irish American News Review will run a series of articles from an interview with Cathal Goulding Chief of Staff of the I.R.A. by Jack Dowling of the Independent Newspapers Ltd. Goulding has spent one-third of his life in prison and was one of the men who re-organized the I.R.A. after the war years.

No Loc

Cathal Goulding

Jack Dowling: It's clear from your public statements and also from the general course of events that, after your Northern campaign of 1956-62, the Republican Movement adopted a new course. Could you give a brief account of this new course and why it was adopted?

Cathal Goulding: When the campaign in the Six Counties ended in 1962, the leadership of the movement was faced with the question: what form will our next campaign take? We had to ask this question of ourselves, because we knew that if we were to retain the leadership of the movement, and maintain the movement itself as a revolutionary organization, we would need have a policy for the next phase of the fight against British

Also, we had on our hands trained physical force revolutionaries who were, to some extent, still armed. They would decide for themselves what would happen next, if we didn't decide for them. With that idea in mind, we called a conference. It lasted roughly eighteen months—almost two years. We held its sessions regularly, almost once a fortnight. At these meetings we called representatives of local leadership.

We included in this Conference a number of the younger people who were active militarily—in the 25 year age-group or even younger. It was essential to stop any premature action by these people. We weren't just sitting down and waiting for something to happen. We were determined to plan for something that we could develop.

Dowling: Was this really a post-mortem on the Northern Campaign failure?

Goulding: Yes, but it was also a post-mortem in a larger sense. The terms of reference that the Army Council gave this Conference, were, briefly, to examine the whole position of the Republican movement from the beginning of this century, to try to supply answers to a number of different questions—such as why was the Republican movement unable to succeed in spite of the fact that the people who were engaged in its revolutionary activities were willing to though supporters made sacrifices in the sense that they gave up their property, their money, we still never came within a real hope of success.

We found that we couldn't stay within the historical terms of reference we'd been given. We had to go back further. The whole history of the resistance to British Imperialism in Ireland, even from 1798, was relevant. The conclusions that we came to were that, although we had the potential for revolution we had the manpower, and in some cases we even had the material), we were separated from the people of Ireland, in the sense that we were a secret organisation.

The people had no real knowledge of our objectives, they didn't understand our tactics or our motives. If they didn't understand us, they couldn't be with us. Without the support of the majority of the people, we just couldn't succeed.

The question was: how could we get the people to support us? The evidence was that the Republican movement had no real policies. Without objectives, we couldn't develop a proper strategy. Tactics were all that we had employed. The actual fight for freedom had become an end in itself to us. Instead of a means, it became an end. We hadn't planned to achieve the freedom of Ireland. We simply planned to fight for the freedom of Ireland. We could never hope to succeed because we never planned to succeed.

Dowling: What did you conclude?

Goulding: The answer was plain: we would have to establish our objectives; to explain these to our own movement; to persuade our movement to accept them; to bring them to the people and explain them — and then to show the people, by our initial political and agitational activities, that we were sincere. We would have to declare what kind of Government, what kind of State we wanted in Ireland. We would then have to show the people by propaganda, education and action, why this type of System would be beneficial to them—that it would mean more bread and butter, better wages, better housing conditions, more education and a profounder cultural life for everyone.

Dowling: How did you propose to bring these things about?

Goulding: Our first objective then was to involve ourselves in the everyday problems of people; to organise them to demand better houses, better working conditions, better jobs, better pay, better education — to develop agitational activities along these lines. By doing this we felt that we could involve the people, not so much in supporting the Republican movement for our political ends, but in supporting agitation so that they themselves would be part of a revolutionary force demanding what the present system just couldn't produce.

Dowling: Can you give an example?

Goulding: All the potential of the building trade, for instance, including men and materials, is used, not to provide what people need — houses — but to build office blocks, luxury hotels, luxury flats in order that the vested interests who control the building trade get as high a profit as possible. The people who control the building trade in Ireland are the people who make housing policy, for the Government.

We saw the Government as simply being dictated to by the different sectional and vested interests in Ireland. We had to expose this to the people. By getting the people to agitate for houses we knew that they'd discover that they couldn't get houses from this Government because the Government hadn't the power to give them houses. The only people who had that power were the people who controlled the industry. By showing people in different agitations that their real enemy in this country is the money-power of British Imperialism, manifesting itself in the activities of bosses, North and South, the landlords, the gombeen-exploiters (all of whom were banded together in an organisation called the Establishment), the people would realise that no matter what they did by way of demonstration or agitation, they couldn't get what was their right from this Establishment.

Their next step, logically, was to destroy this Establishment and to put something in its place that would give them social justice. The only people who can give the ordinary people what they need is themselves. They would have to have some form of democratic Government which they themselves would be able to control. They would be the makers of Government policy and not the vested interests in the country.

Dowling: Your object, then, in supporting these agitations (and promoting them where necessary) was to make it evident to the working classes that the system couldn't give them what they wanted, as you say, and that the only solution would be a revolutionary solution in which they would seize the instrument of power itself. Would this be accurate?

Goulding: Yes. We believed that political power must be our objective, whether we got it through physical force or through the ballot box or agitation. The means immaterial. Of course, we believed, a revolutionary organisation that the people can't get real political power by simply having representatives elected. There were too many examples in the world — Greece, Spain, Portugal, where the people elected the Government in a democratic manner and were 'democratically' oppressed by the forces of the Establishment who 'democratically' control the police, the Army and the Church.

Northern Ireland is a class example. As in any other country, the middle classes in the country are well entrenched in the different levels of the Establishment; in the police, the Army, the Church or Parliament. We believed that these forces wouldn't allow the ordinary people to win real freedom in any way except, in the final analysis, by physical force.

Dowling: In that sense, then, the policy adopted in 1962-63 was explicitly a socialist revolutionary policy?

Goulding: It was. In fact, these discussions went on almost into 1965, and in 1965, we produced a nine-point document dealing with social agitation, the means by which we could finance the movement, what our attitudes would be to the courts and a change in our policies towards the institutions of the Establishment.

We felt that by sitting down and doing nothing about the Special Powers Act in the North, doing nothing about the Offences Against the State Act in the South, by continuing to refuse to recognise the courts, by refusing to answer police questions, by refusing to account for our movements, we left ourselves on a clean plate for the police forces of the Establishment to use us and put us in gaol whenever it suited them. A man in gaol was simply a casualty.

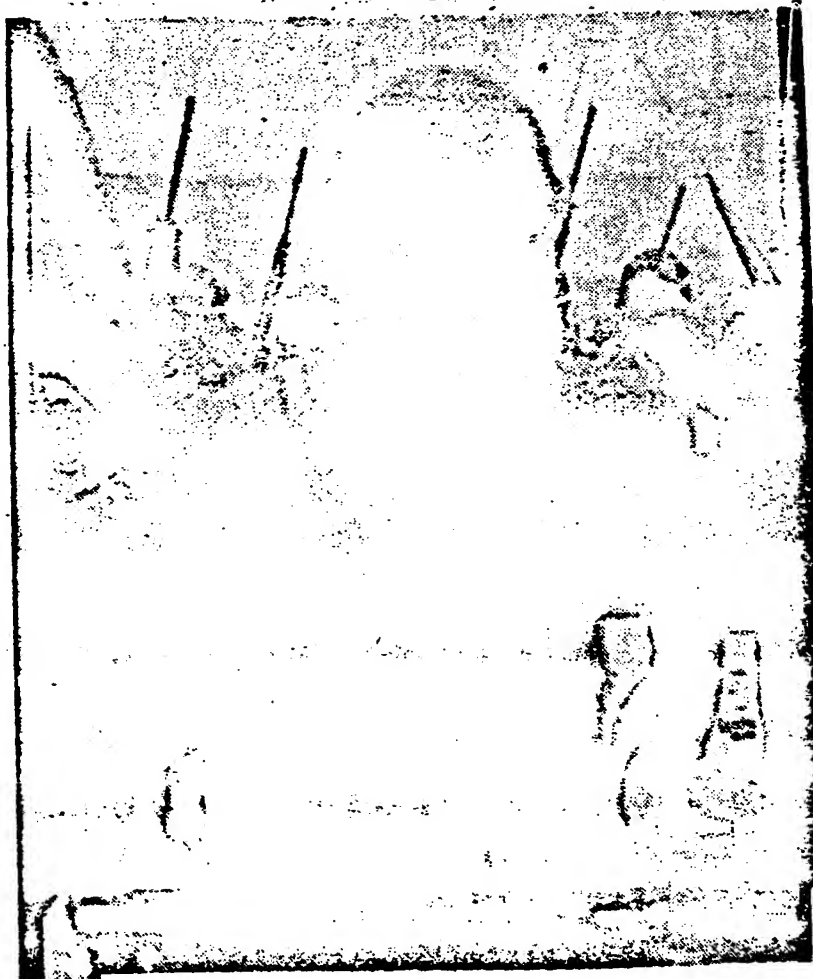

We felt that our whole future was a political and revolutionary force in Ireland should be geared to keeping our people out of gaol, and leading a revolution. Our policy of economic and political agitation would mean a change in our attitude to the courts. Republicans arrested with others for agitation would adopt the same attitude as others in order to identify and stand with the people.

Dowling: Logically this new policy would involve abandonment of your tradition of parliamentary abstention?

Goulding: The last of these nine points was related to parliamentary participation. This last point was accepted by the 1963-65 Conference by a small majority — I think it was by about two votes — and these recommendations were passed on the Army Council and the Fianna Fail Executive. The Army Council called a Special Convention of the IRA and recommended acceptance of the first eight points and that the ninth point be rejected.

Two Indicted Here In Illegal Gun Sales; One Tied to I.R.A.

A Yonkers gun dealer — whose name surfaced in the course of a Texas grand jury investigation of alleged gun-running by American partisans of the Irish Republican Army — was one of two men indicted here yesterday on charges of illegal gun sales.

A Federal grand jury indicted the gun dealer, Edward Agramonte, proprietor of the Antique and Modern Gun Shop at 41 Riverdale Avenue in the Bronx, on charges of illegally possessing, selling and dealing in guns, explosives, ammunition and hand grenades.

In a separate action, the jury also indicted Alfred B. Schneider, a licensed New York City gun dealer, for selling weapons without properly recording information about purchasers.

Well-placed sources had earlier indicated that Mr. Agramonte was being scrutinized in connection with the I.R.A. investigation — which has centered in Fort Worth. But spoke man for the office of United States Attorney Whitney North Seymour Jr., which announced the indictments, declined to comment further on the matter.

Last June five New York-area Irish-Americans reported to be sympathetic with the Provisional wing of the I.R.A. were called before the Fort Worth grand jury and jailed for contempt after they spurned offers of immunity and refused to answer its questions.

The Fort Worth investigation, according to reliable informants, was in part sparked by the appearance of American Armalite AR-180 semiautomatic rifles in the hands of I.R.A. terrorists in Northern Ireland.

Mr. Schneider, an Austrian-born naturalized citizen who lives at 307 West 83d Street, was charged with selling seven rifles — M-1's, M-2's and 303-caliber Lee Enfields. It was not clear if his indictment was related to that of Mr. Agramonte.

Undercounter Guns Charges Hold a Busman

By NORMA ABRAMS

In an action believed to be linked to the Fort Worth Five, a 41-year-old bus driver was under federal indictment here yesterday on charges of inducing a gun dealer to sell him 56 weapons without keeping proper records.

The bus driver, Patrick Purcell, father of four, who works for the Manhattan and Bronx Surface Transportation Operating Authority, was also charged with possession of a sub-machine gun. U.S. Magistrate Harold Raby ordered him held in $20,000 personal recognizance bond or $5,000 cash bond.

Shop Owner Indicted

Purcell, who lives at 57 S. Magnolia St. in Pearl River, was charged with inducing Alfred B. Schneider, 42, of 307 W. 83d St., owner of a gun shop, to sell him the 56 guns, including carbines, the 56 guns, including carbines, rifles and semi-automatic rifles, between Dec. 1, 1971 and June 1 last.

Schneider was charged with selling the weapons without keeping proper records in a federal indictment returned Aug. 29. Edward Agramonte, a Yonkers gun dealer, whose name had turned up in connection with the Fort Worth Five, was named in a separate indictment the same day on charges of illegally possessing and selling guns.

At yesterday's hearing, it was brought out that Purcell had visited his grandparents in Northern Ireland last June.

"Companion Case in Texas"

In arguing for low bail, Purcell's attorney referred to "a companion case in Texas," apparently alluding to the five men held without bail for more than three months in connection with an investigation of gun-running to Northern Ireland. They were eventually let out in lowered bail.

The five, all from the metropolitan area, were held in contempt of court for refusing to tell a Fort Worth grand jury what they all really knew about the shipment of guns to members of the Irish Republican Army.

Vietnam Veteran 'Active' in Ulster

BELFAST (UPI) — Bombs exploded and bullets flew across Northern Ireland today and British army sources said at least one American Vietnam war veteran was "active" in terrorism sweeping the province.

Two youths on a speeding motorcycle sprayed a group of Roman Catholic teen-agers with machinegun fire in Belfast early today in an attack police said might signal a new campaign of terror. The bullets wounded one girl in the shoulder as she stood on a street corner but missed the other youths with her.

Army sources said an American Vietnam veteran was known to be "active in operations" in Northern Ireland, but they declined to say in what capacity or to identify him. They also said a Canadian explosives expert is training Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen in the Irish Republic.

In other violence today, a landmine exploded just in front of two British army trucks near Cookstown, County Tyrone, blowing a large crater in the road. The army said troops aboard the trucks escaped injury, and police said gunmen shot two teen-age boys in the knees in Belfast, a traditional form of IRA punishment.

The disclosure of the American Vietnam veteran operating in the province followed a report in the London Daily Express that the IRA's militant Provisional Wing has started to recruit Vietnam veterans in the United States to serve as IRA gunmen in Northern Ireland.

The newspaper, quoting British intelligence officials, said the enlistment drive was supported by pro-IRA groups in New York, but did not indicate how many, if any, veterans were recruited.

In Belfast, a provisional spokesman declined comment on the recruitment report. Provisional officials denied a similar report in another British newspaper earlier this year.

'Draconian moves' to fight terrorIRA OUTLAWED*BY JENKINS

explosions in London

THE IRA is to be outlawed in Great Britain, Mr Jenkins, Home Secretary, announced in Parliament yesterday. Its members and anyone who supports it will be liable to five years' imprisonment and an unlimited fine. The necessary Bill will be introduced tomorrow and become law on Thursday.

In what Mr Jenkins described as a series of "Draconian measures, unprecedented in peacetime," anyone wearing uniform-style clothes such as the Provisionals' black berets risks a £200 fine and up to three months in jail. It will also be an offence to carry IRA banners.

Mr Jenkins recognised that a demand for the return of the death penalty existed but suggested it was best discussed by Parliament independently of the anti-IRA measures. More than 60 Conservative MPs have signed a motion calling for capital punishment for people causing death by planting bombs.

WELCOME IN DUBLIN

The measures, which will be subject to renewal after six months, were generally welcomed in Dublin and Ulster. But in Birmingham, there was anger that they were not harsh enough and there were numerous demonstrations in the city demanding a tougher line.

Immediately after Mr Jenkins' announcement three bombs, planted in post boxes, exploded in the centre of London, injuring 14 people. They went off during the rush hour in Piccadilly, Kings Cross and Victoria Underground Station. No warnings were given.

Scotland Yard were expecting attacks from the IRA and the Special Patrol Group of about 200 men and women, some armed, mounted patrols around Government buildings and other possible targets.

Black berets ban

By H. B. BOYNE, Political Correspondent

THE IRA will be an outlawed organisation in Great Britain by next weekend. Anyone who belongs to it or supports it will be liable to five years' imprisonment and an unlimited fine.

This was announced in the Commons yesterday by Mr Jenkins, Home Secretary, in his statement on the outrages in Birmingham.

Summary convictions, which usually apply only to lesser offences and some first offenders, will be six months imprisonment and a fine of £400.

But anyone who publicly wears clothing such as berets, which suggest that they belong to a proscribed organisation such as the IRA, will be liable to incur a fine of £200 and three months imprisonment.

These hardened penalties reflect the Government's determination to quell, if possible, the outbreak of violence and indiscriminate murder evidenced in Britain by last Thursday's indiscriminate bombings in Birmingham.

Pledge by Tories

They were immediately approved by Sir Keith Joseph, Shadow Home Secretary, on behalf of the Opposition. Mr Heath, Leader of the Opposition, undertook that the Conservatives would facilitate their enactment into law by Thursday night.

The necessary Bill will be introduced and published tomorrow. While it will specify the IRA, it will also enable the Government to proscribe by order any other organisations which attempt by changes of title or designation to evade its provisions.

People who wear clothes or armbands which are obviously insignia of the IRA will be liable to prosecution even if their garments or headgear fall short of the insignia covered by the Public Order Act 1936, which was passed during the blackshirt disturbances.

It will also be an offence to carry banners in support of the IRA.

Exclusion orders capable of expelling people from Great Britain as well as keeping entrants out may be made under the Bill if it appears to the Home Secretary that the persons designated are concerned with acts of terrorism or have knowingly harboured others in that category.

Anyone who knowingly helps a person subject to an exclusion order to enter this country or knowingly harbours him will be liable to the same penalties as if he were himself a member of the IRA.

The police will be able to detain for as long as seven days, subject to the Home Secretary's consent, persons suspected of offences under the new Bill, and also to fingerprint them.

This is intended to facilitate the inspection and checking of police records against persons who may be picked on suspicion.

While the Home Secretary has postponed for the time being any possibility of introducing a system of identity cards, he is seeking powers under the new Bill to impose much more stringent control on travel into and out of Great Britain.

Examining officers at air and sea ports will have powers to arrest, detain and search all passengers entering or leaving from or to Ireland.

For the time being, this will be exercised on a "spot check" basis, which means that every traveller will not necessarily be examined but that he cannot assume he will not be examined.

Mr Jenkins emphasised that the Bill would cease to have effect after six months unless it was continued, for six months at a time, by its explicit authority of Parliament.

Fully justified

"These powers are draconian," he said. "In combination they are unprecedented in peace time. I believe they are fully justified to meet the clear and present danger."

Judging by the reaction on both sides of the House, the powers which the Government is seeking to cope with the current outrages are no greater than the situation requires.

There was less insistence than might have been expected for the demand that persons guilty of terrorism should be liable to the death penalty.

Mr Jenkins, recognising that the demand for capital punishment existed, suggested that Parliament might think it right to deal with it outside the scope of the anti-IRA measures which ought to be passed with the maximum speed.

There was no great demand in the House by MPs on either side for the introduction of identity cards including photographs and finger prints. Mr Jenkins expressed doubts whether the provision of cards, which would involve a vast effort, would produce any worthwhile result.

In his opinion, there is no guarantee that the compulsory production of identity cards would stop terrorism. He has in mind that cards of this kind are documents lending themselves to simple forgeries.

Tough demands

The Home Secretary's statement was considered last night by the Conservative party's Home Affairs, Defence and Northern Ireland committees meeting together in the Commons. The chair was taken by Sir Keith Joseph.

Strong views were expressed, including demands for the reintroduction of capital punishment for terrorist offences.

There were also demands that identity cards should be issued, and that travel documents should be necessary for journeys between Eire and Britain.

Emphasis was also placed on the building up of special constabulary in England. After the discussions, Sir Keith said: "It was an intensive and very concerned meeting."

Around the World

Ulster Gets Bireligious Coalition

BELFAST—Roman Catholics gained a significant share of power for the first time in the history of predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland yesterday as a new coalition government took office. But religious violence continued with the killing of a British soldier.

Army spokesmen said the soldier was killed and another was wounded by a single sniper shot fired at a patrol in the Catholic Lower Falls Road area of Belfast.

Lord Chief Justice Sir Robert Lowry swore in a 15-man coalition executive which for the first time shares power among the province's majority Protestants and minority Catholics.

The new executive, which heads a 78-member assembly, is led by former provincial Prime Minister Brian Faulkner. It got back most of the internal self-rule powers over Ulster which Britain took away from the former provincial parliament in March, 1972.

The new administration will run schools, housing and local government. Britain keeps control of security, defense, foreign affairs and much of the province's tax system.

"Today is the most important date in Irish political history since 1921 [when the state of Northern Ireland was formed] and it presages a period of peace and progress in the whole of Ireland," Faulkner said.

Soviet Executions

MOSCOW — The Soviet government has executed two executives of a fruit juice factory in Azerbaijan for grand larceny.

The newspaper Baku Worker said the two men who died before a firing squad were Taimur Faradgze Akhmedov, director of the Georchayka fruit juice plant, and his bookkeeper, Zaman Mirza Khaki.

Greek Court Ended

ATHENS — Greece established the constitutional court set up by the ousted Papadopoulos regime. A presidential decree dissolving the court said its members will return to their old jobs as judges, civil servants or professors.

The court was established under constitutional changes approved by a referendum five months ago. It was to screen the programs of political parties and qualifications of individual candidates. It had power to dissolve any party which deviated from its program. It was also empowered to bar any candidate whose acts were judged to be against the constitution.

Castro Speech

MIAMI — Prime Minister Fidel Castro told Cuban army troops that Cuba still faces the danger of military aggression from the United States.

"This danger has existed and will continue to exist while there is a Cuban revolution and while there is imperialism," Castro said.

Chinese Message

PEKING — In their traditional New Year's message to the nation, the Chinese government and Communist Party said the United States and the Soviet Union were fierce rivals for world hegemony in 1973. It added that "Europe is the strategic focus of their contention."

Geneva Bombs

GENEVA — Police in Geneva, site of the Middle East peace talks, discovered six parcels containing explosives in baggage lockers at the city's central railroad station.

Police said the explosives were discovered after an explosion reported out of Interswiss. William Cargill, 30, was a

Col. Muammar Qaddafi, the national President of Libya, has confessed in private to Malta officials that to date his government has contributed $10 million in aid to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Addressing students during his recent three-day visit to Malta, Qaddafi declared, "It's Libya's duty to help people who are struggling to obtain their freedom."

It has long been held that an important source of IRA funds is the U.S. with its large population of Irish descendants. As matter of fact, there are more people of Irish descent in this country — 16 million — than are in all of Ireland, population 3 million.

It has been suspected for some time that Irish-Americans contribute sizable funds to the IRA without any knowledge of what the money is used for

" Political

I.R.A. had a plan to aid Nazi forces

By the Political Correspondent

THE Government of Northern Ireland yesterday published minutes of a secret meeting of 18 I.R.A. staff officers at which, it is stated, a decision was taken "that if German forces should enter Ireland with the consent of the provisional Government of the Irish Republic, the I.R.A. should assist the German forces."

This is one point from a pamphlet, illustrated with photographs of arms said to have been found in I.R.A. dumps, which the Northern Ireland Government has put out in anticipation of Friday's debate in the Commons here.

Some 200 M.P.s have tabled an amendment objecting to the new Northern Ireland Bill until "the Parliament of Northern Ireland so administers the Government of Ireland Act, 1920, as to provide democratic liberty for the people of Northern Ireland."

Sabotage plan

This reply argues that the special powers possessed by the Northern Ireland Government exist only to deal with threats from the I.R.A., and have been used only against that body.

It is pointed out that in 1922 232 people were killed and over 1,000 wounded in clashes in Northern Ireland, and that the I.R.A. prepared a widespread sabotage plan for the war period.

The pamphlet attacks the National Council for Civil Liberties, which criticised the Northern Ireland Government in 1936 for having "never obtained and never sought any evidence except from persons hostile to the Northern Ireland Government of that day."

On local government franchise, which is still based upon rateable occupation, as in Britain before 1944, the pamphlet states that no change was made because none was necessary or demanded by any political party in Northern Ireland.

Zero hour for any immediate action by the IRA may possibly coincide with the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Ulster next week.

Most likely demonstration would be on the border—the deliberate destruction of Customs posts to show that the frontier no longer exists to the true Irishman.

Police will be brought to Belfast from all parts of Ulster to ensure the safety of the Royal visitors.

The "Arm now to take the North" posters displayed in Dublin, which were first mentioned in the Daily Herald, are, I am told, issued by an Irish society, which has Fascist ideas. They were torn down yesterday.

'Seize the Six: prepare for action'

By STANLEY BISHOP

BELFAST, Tuesday

TRAINING of recruits for new battalions of the outlawed Irish Republican Army is now taking place regularly in Eire in avowed preparation for events on Northern Ireland border.

Chief assembly centres are in the Southern counties of Wicklow, Louth and Kerry.

Today I was shown copies of an inflammatory pamphlet issued monthly by an underground organisation which calls itself "The Architects of the Irish Resurrection."

The pamphlets, which bear a Southern Ireland imprint, are well produced and written, with illustrations and cartoons.

The fiery character of these sheets can be judged by the headings and extracts from the articles.

Here are some of the headlines, printed in big type:

A quarter of a million volunteers can end partition in a quarter of an hour;

Seize those six (the six counties of Ulster);

Get ready for action;

Prayer, propaganda, passive resistance, and then seize the six.

Rifle clubs

There are articles on recruiting in which it is said: "Military training for all Irishmen of military age is essential for the future security and independence of our country."

"Every true Irishman must learn to shoot. Talk alone will not end English aggression in the North. It is essential, if we are really in earnest about this matter, to be prepared."

Security Measures Foil Attackers

Second IRA Arms Raid Is Thwarted

LONDON, Aug. 15 (UP)—The outlawed Irish Republican Army struck again today with a raid on a British armory in Wales, but new war-like security measures in effect thruout Britain foiled the attackers.

Five members of the I. R. A. swooped down on the Kinnel Park Garrison at Rhyl in North Wales in a pre-dawn attack aimed at building up the army's arsenal in its avowed campaign to drive the British out of northern Ireland.

They tied up one British soldier but he was able to free himself and sound the alarm. First reports said the raiders fled without taking anything, pursued by police and members of the 31st and 38th Royal Artillery training regiments stationed at the camp on the Irish Sea.

The camp is five miles southwest of Rhyl near the main St. Asaph to Abergele Road.

CRASH ROADBLOCK

An unidentified truck, possibly carrying arms captured in the I. R. A.'s most daring raid in history Saturday, ran a police roadblock near Edinburgh. The truck ignored police signals to stop and the alarm was flashed to all checkpoints.

British armed forces went on a wartime alert unparalleled since 1945 and War Minister Anthony Eden prepared to report to Prime Minister Anthony Eden at a special cabinet meeting today.

Commander Leonard Burt, chief of the Scotland Yard special branch, interrupted his vacation to take over the manhunt. The British Army ordered all sentries be armed against further I. R. A. raids.

UNARMED

That order followed an outcry in the British press when it was discovered that the Saturday victims of the I. R. A. commandos were armed only with pick handles.

The I. R. A.'s insolent Saturday raid netted 67 Bren and Sten guns and rifles and 80,000 rounds of ammunition when a band of commandos descended on the British barracks at Arborfield near London and tied up 20 sentries.

Three suspected raiders and a fifth of the stolen ammunition were captured a few hours later, but the rest got away.

Eden, Cabinet Meet About I.R.A. Raids

LONDON, Aug. 16 (UP)—British police sources warned today the outlawed Irish Republican Army undoubtedly was trying to "stockpile arms for large-scale future operations" in its campaign to end the partition of Ireland.

Prime Minister Anthony Eden held a special cabinet session last night to discuss the I.R.A.'s bold strikes against British Army camps and a War Office statement said new "special precautions" had been ordered.

Army camps thruout Britain already were on a near war-time footing to forestall new I.R.A. raids. Special security guards were posted at the Parliament buildings to guard against a reported plot to blow them up.

Two London newspapers said Scotland Yard had found an I.R.A. plan to invade Northern Ireland in 1957 after overthrowing the Dublin government, but government officials here would not comment.

MEETING

The newspapers said the plan was being studied by the cabinet and the War Office and noted Mr. Eden met last night with Home Secretary Gwilyn Lloyd George, War Minister Antony Head and Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

The reported plan to seize Ulster—the six northern Ireland counties which are British territory—calls for:

- Further raids on British arms dumps to capture more automatic weapons such as the Bren and Sten guns taken in a daring raid Saturday.
- A 1957 invasion of Ulster accompanied by overthrow of the Dublin government.
- A call to the 16,000-man Irish army to join the fight for Ulster.
- A call to the inhabitants of Northern Ireland to rise against the British.

• The capture of Enniskillen, Omagh and possibly Londonderry, both as a bridgehead for further operations and a bargaining lever with the British.

Thousands of British police still searched for I. R. A. commandoes who seized guns and ammunition in a raid Saturday on a British barracks near London and struck again, unsuccessfully, at an Army camp in Wales yesterday.

RECOVERY

Special branch detectives today recovered a car and a second two-ton truck used in the Saturday raid. The truck was found empty in a London garage.

One truck was recovered Sunday morning at a police roadblock with part of the stolen arms.

Three men captured with the truck appeared in Magistrates Court today and were remanded until Aug. 23. The men would make no statement.

Outlawed IRA Raids Ulster in Night of Terror

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Dec. 12 (AP).—The outlawed Irish Republican Army staged a mass raid on 12 points in British North Ireland today, causing an estimated $1 million worth of damage.

Before they were beaten back by the Royal Ulster Constabulary, the invaders blew up a $100,000 British Broadcasting Corp. radio transmitter, two buildings, and two bridges, set fire to a courthouse and tried to capture a military barracks.

They set off what police described as "a night of terror" along a line stretching almost 200 miles across Northern Ireland (Ulster). Five of Ulster's six counties were affected.

A policeman was wounded slightly and five raiders were captured before the invaders fled. Police said at least three of those who escaped were wounded. The constables found two bullet-riddled cars, machine-guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Main Body Escapes

Heavy detachments of constabulary, and helicopters and police dogs, were thrown into the hunt for the fleeing invaders. Barbed-wire roadblocks were thrown up at the wooded and mountainous border with the Irish Republic, but police said the main body of the raiders apparently had escaped across the border.

Police said the raid apparently was a show of strength on the part of IRA leaders to discourage any bid for control by dissident factions within its own ranks. Breakaway groups within the IRA have recently staged minor raids on British customs posts.

The main purpose of the underground organization — outlawed by both the British and the Irish Republic — is to have the six counties of Ulster made a part of the Irish Republic.

Ulster is now a part of the United Kingdom.

Incidents Recounted

The vest-pocket invasion began shortly after midnight. Before it ended withdrawal of the raiders, police said there were these incidents:

The barracks of the Royal Irish Fusiliers at Armagh was attacked by about 15 men, their faces blackened with cork, who threw hand grenades and tried to scale a wall. Barracks guards on the beat them off. An Armagh policeman who tried to stop a fleeing car was wounded slightly by submachinegun fire. Other constables captured two armed men.

A building in Londonderry housing a relay transmitter of the British Broadcasting Corp. was blown up.

A dozen men dressed in police uniforms kidnaped the caretaker of the courthouse at Maghera-felt and his wife and set the building ablaze. The kidnaped couple were released unharmed three miles away.

Territorial Building Blasted

The headquarters building of a British territorial army unit — equivalent to a United States National Guard company — at Enniskillen was blown up, along with two bridges at nearby Inishmore and Newtown Butler.

Police and an armed band riding in a truck exchanged shots near Torr Head. Three men were arrested. Constables said all five addresses in Cork, in the Irish Republic.

A wooden police hut was burned down at Newry.

factory battle

NEWCASTLE (Indiana), Wednesday.

EIGHT people were shot today in a battle here between about 5,000 workers and police outside a strikebound foundry.

The battle developed when demonstrating workers made a sympathy march on the foundry of the Perfect Circle Corporation, whose 260 employees went on strike two months ago.

City police radioed an appeal for all available State police as striking United Auto Workers began shouting they were going inside the plant to bring out non-strikers.

The demonstration was believed to have been called because 35 workers, including top officials of the union, were dismissed yesterday.

'SEIZED PLANT'

Letters of dismissal referred to the men's "improper conduct" in picketing and seizing the plant from September 19 to 27. At that time police arrested 55 pickets. The factory reopened on September 27.

Union officials denied they knew of any "plan" to force non-strikers to leave the factory.

The union's regional publicity director said he saw non-strikers shooting into the crowd from the factory's first floor, but no shooting by the city police who were inside the plant.

Other union officials said demonstrators had come from all parts of the State, but that no official call had gone to them. Police said the marching line of demonstrators stretched for ten to 12 blocks.—Reuter.

U.S. railmen get rise

A WAGE increase of about 8d an hour has been won for 175,000 American railway workers, it was announced yesterday.

The agreement came after three weeks of discussion between employers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the largest rail union.

Yard workers will also start a 40-hour week on December 1 and get extra pay ranging from 6s to 10s a day.

GUILTY OF KNIFING, HE'S FREED

DONALD ALLAN, 32, an American journalist, found guilty by a Rome court yesterday of attempted murder of his wife's Italian lover, was given the minimum sentence of 200 days, which meant his immediate release.

His wife, Margery, 33-year-old mother of three children, was said to have admitted an "intimate relationship" with the Italian, Adalberto Spinosa, 28.

The defence asked for "Latin humanity and understanding" for Allan, who stabbed Spinosa after he saw him leave a masked ball with his (Allan's) wife.

In Thailand we had a marvelous party. In Ceylon we had a terrible party. In India they gave her a 17-course banquet, and in Formosa, where she was the guest of Chiang Kai-shek, she saw everything and they're doing a fine job.

Glassy-eyed

But it wasn't all beer and skittles. In Indo-China she ran into riots which were "the worst experience of my life—two hours seemed like a lifetime."

Describing how the rioters—"they were fanatics, their eyes were glassy"—came to break down her door in the Majestic Hotel, Saigon, Mrs. Mesta described with a magnificent sweep of the hand how she threw open the door crying:

"We are Americans, we are your friends!" This tamed the glassy-eyed multitude.

"There were Communists among them stirring it up—I'm certain of that," she said.

Sitting in her Claridges' apartment, drinking iced Coca-Cola—"Coca-Cola always!" she announced emphatically, "but in some of these places they have no coke"—Mrs. Mesta puts on a wonderful show.

Persian mink

She teases the photographers—"This is my best side, boys," and "Ugh! I'd rather go to the dentist!"

She charms everybody with chatter of hats, flowers, poodles (her sister exports them to the United States) and a word of scious advice.

"It doesn't take a cheque book and a bank account to give a good party—just a hostess who wants everybody to be happy."

With her blue mink stole, pearls and perfectly arranged grey curls, Mrs. Mesta conceals the fact that she is a street, hard-working American millionairess, under the air of a prize blue Persian cat.

These animals play delightfully—but watch out, you'll finish up as a mouthful the 17-course banquet.

DEMOCATS FREE IN PAKISTAN

THE release of the last 125 political prisoners in East Pakistan, including yesterday by communists, was ordered, Chief Mr. Abu Husayn of Pakistan.

THE French Minister for Morocco, M. Delestraint, admitted yesterday that the military situation there was serious, with the Moroccan independence forces holding down over 2,000 French crack troops.

Speaking in Paris to the French Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee, he said that the independence movements throughout the whole of North Africa seemed to have a unified command.

Shortly before he spoke, reports from Fez said that the 2,000 troops fighting in the Rif Mountains, including a Foreign Legion battalion, were virtually trapped.

They were making a desperate bid to break out of a triangular trap under withering fire from Berber tribesmen.

Quagmire roads

Only one point of the triangle, the little town of Aknoul, was not completely encircled, and late last night the tribesmen had occupied a ravine less than a mile from the town.

A small column from Aknoul earlier managed to break through to Tizli Ouzli to help the French garrison, but the ring closed again yesterday.

Colonel Boreille, who had set out from Bourged at the head of a battalion of the 4th Foreign Legion Regiment and a company of Senegalese to try to reach Aknoul had to fight his way back to his shattered outpost.

For close on 24 hours his tanks in a narrow gorge by the machine-guns and rifles of the Moroccans perched on the slopes.

The roads, turned to quagmires by heavy rain, had been cut by wide trenches manned by other tribesmen.

Meanwhile, Right-Wing Deputies in Paris were trying to force the withdrawal of the few concessions that had already been made by the French Government in Morocco.

Saboteurs

The Gaullist Deputies met to consider if their three members of the French Government should not now be called on to resign and bring down the Faure Government lest the Premier again be tempted to carry out his promises given to the Moroccans six weeks ago.

The orthodox Gaullist General Koenig, Defence Minister, has been one of the leaders of those who have sabotaged the promises.

Koenig's political adviser, General Jean Lecomte, once Director of Political Affairs in Morocco, is another.

U.N. debate

The United Nations political committee decided yesterday to begin the debate on peaceful uses of atomic energy tomorrow and postponed decision "for the time being" on the order of priority of other questions before it, including Algeria.

PRESIDENT: MORE IMPROVEMENT

President Eisenhower's doctors said yesterday that he had had "an excellent night" and continued to "progress satisfactorily without complications."

Canada: ban V missiles

NEW YORK, Wednesday. CANADA appealed in the United Nations Disarmament Sub-Committee today for a "real effort" to halt the development of the intercontinental guided missile.

Mr. Paul Martin, the Canadian delegate, told the other four members of the sub-committee that this issue was of particular interest to Canada.

Such missiles contained a very real and terrifying threat to mankind, he said.

EISENHOWER PLAN

Western sources said after the private meeting that Mr. Martin had paid tribute to the peaceful intentions of the United States.

and had restated Canada's support for President Eisenhower's "open skies" pre-disarmament plan.

The Soviet delegate Mr. Sobolev, was reported to have said his Government also believed in the peaceful intentions of the U.S.

But he is also said to have remarked that Mr. Stassen's statement for the U.S. omitted all mention of the prohibition and elimination of nuclear weapons.

CINEMA QUEUE BACKS THE PEACE LOBBY

Daily Worker Reporter

FOUR women—led by housewife Mrs. Margaret Shaw—collected 116 signatures supporting the October 25 Peace Lobby of Parliament from a Glasgow cinema queue.

The cinemagoers donated 16s 10d to help send delegates to the lobby. The petition urges a local M.P. to press the Foreign Secretary to support these proposals at Geneva.

An all-European security treaty; abolition of nuclear weapons; a measure of disarmament, including a cut in conscription; fullest development of East-West trade.

...astically worked in past elections were browbeaten. They were not replaced by anyone who had the slightest enthusiasm for Right Wing policy.
That was the outstanding cause of Labour's electoral defeat.

The lesson for next week's Margate conference of the Labour Party is that there is as yet no visible change in this situation. There is still no major difference between the parties. Until this is changed there can be no
Labour revival.

Frothblower

AFTER the Lord Mayor's show comes the dustcart.
After hacking his way through several courses at the banquet and topping off the champagne with a little old brandy, Mr. Butler turned to "blowing the froth off a brimful economy."

Savage housing cuts and rent increases may bring misery to many—but it's just froth-blowing to Butler.
Economy cuts in education
may prolong the teachers' nightmare of 30 per classroom and damn the hopes of proud parents whose 11-year-olds cannot get to grammar schools.

It's just a little more froth-blowing Butler.

The Oxford Dictionary defines froth as "something unsubstantial — of little worth." The cuts matter little to Butler and his bankers — but they spell misery and hardship for millions of working people.

Definition

The dictionary also defines froth as "scum" and as an expression of contempt. That, too, was no doubt in the minds of the Stock Exchange sharks who applauded their Butler.

The working class to them are just scum who have to exist as a necessary evil—to provide the chosen few with their riches.

Mr. Butler's froth-blowing was received with guffaws by the assembled multitude of bankers and boozers who were exhorted by the Chancellor to live up to their traditional virtues.

They are certainly doing their best. A few will sooner or later receive the reward for their virtue that went to Horatio Bottomley.

Eventually all of them will get their deserts—their very just deserts—at the hands of the British working class.

...to do with us."
When he pronounced sentence of life imprisonment for the charges of armed robbery, there was a gasp in the court.
The three accused were quickly led to the cells below and shortly afterwards were driven away in a police van. Following and preceding it were police radio cars.
Mr. Justice Cassels left the court within a few minutes of delivering sentence, escorted by a police car.

No remission is granted on sentences of life imprisonment, but the Home Secretary can at any time order the release on licence of a prisoner serving such a sentence.

No election address for jailed MP

ON the Home Secretary's instructions the jailed Sinn
Fein M.P. for Mid-Ulster, Mr. Tom Mitchell, was not allowed to send out an election address.

This was confirmed by the deputy-governor of Belfast prison,
Mr. A. T. Taylor, giving evidence at Omagh yesterday in the action to unseat Mr. Mitchell.
The defeated Tory candidate,
Mr. Charles Beattie, seeks a ruling disqualifying Mr. Mitchell on grounds that he is a convicted felon and declaring him (Beattie)
the M.P.

BIGGER MAJORITY

The Sinn Feiner is serving a ten-year sentence for his part in the Omagh barracks arms raid last year. When his General Election victory was declared void he was re-elected at a by-election with an increased majority.

Mr. Mitchell was brought to court yesterday, the first day of the hearing at which only those with "genuine business in court" were allowed to be present.

Malaya Premier and truce

Malaya's Chief Minister, Tengku
Rahman, said in Perak yesterday that he would ask the Government for a cease-fire if the Malayan Communist leader Chin Peng would guarantee a cease-fire on his side.

In a letter sent to Tengku Rahman a week ago, the Malayan Communist Party asked for immediate discussions on peace and declared that a Communist representative would shortly be sent to Kuala Lumpur.

First Chinese on way home

About 40 Chinese, former residents of the United States, arrived in Manila aboard the liner President Cleveland yesterday on their way back to China.

The Chinese are some of a number from America who are being repatriated under an agreement reached at Geneva last month.

It happened at Neokhorio, 27

Several British soldiers and

A police party sent to remove

When the bells rang out the

GREEKS SEE ELECTION

New Premier appointed

By Our Diplomatic Correspondent

THE demand of the Greek people for a new election rapidly yesterday following the death of Field-M-Papagos, the Premier, in the midst of a Greek Govern-crisis over Cyprus.

Such an election will have to be fought on the qu-of how the Cypriots are to win self-determination.

The Field-Marshal died late on Tuesday, after handing over power as acting-Premier to Mr.
Stefanopoulos, his Foreign Minister.

But last night King Paul asked
Mr. Constantine Karamanlis, Minister of Public Works, to form a Cabinet. This will be announced today.

Field-Marshal Papagos came to the fore in 1949, when given full powers by the King of Greece to suppress the Greek democrats and Communists.

The ruthless methods he chose to put them down left his name as a black mark across the whole country.

U.S. treaty

Many were killed, tens of thousands were flung into prison and concentration camps under the most appalling conditions. Many died there. Thousands are still held in them.

In 1953, under U.S. pressure, Papagos signed a treaty with that country giving it military, naval and air bases in Greece, and extra territorial rights for its nationals such as exist nowhere else in Europe.

Against the will of the Greek people he brought the country into

N.A.T.O. and its sub-
Balkan alliance.

Last year under American pressure he doned support of the C claim to self-determin-when the matter was before
United Nations.

Many Greeks blame his Gov-ment for the failure to get matter discussed there again year.

In the rigged election of the Greek Rally, the reaction-party formed by Papagos,
240 of the 300 seats

No more talks

The Greek people, for th part, demand an election to choa government which will their country out of N.A.T.O. a win self-determination f
Cyprus.

Yesterday in an interview w a Cypriot paper Mr. Stefanop
los declared that Greece wou reject any British invitation further tripartite or bipartite tal in London on Cyprus.

Such talks, he said, would be fruitless, because of the Briti
Government's refusal to recogn-Cypriot rights.

One-seventh of your pay is Council rent

From PETER ZINKIN

BOURNEMOUTH, W. Wednesday.
HOW high council rents may go was discussed in a discussion on "differential rents" at the Tory Party's local government conference here today.

A minimum rent of one-seventh of the tenants' gross income was the basis on which Tory councils were now being rents, said speakers in the discussion, to which Mr. Duncan Sandys, Minister of Housing and Local Government, replied.

The one-seventh may become a nationally enforced minimum in place of the 10 per cent fixed by the Labour Government.

With great emphasis Mr. Sandys declared that he thought the council house subsidy was too high and that the Government was determined to end it.

A new method of awarding the subsidy and of altering and perhaps ending the present system of allocating permits to councils to build was planned.

All hush-hush

"Large numbers of tenants are having their rents subsidised by more than their earnings required," said Mr. Sandys, who yet claimed that cutting the housing subsidy would cause no hardship.

He refused to give details because the plan was now being discussed with local council representatives, with whom he has a further meeting next week.

Evidently Mr. Sandys believes that cutting the subsidies will force rents so high that no one would want to build houses because tenants could not pay the rents.

A hint of his fear of the mass movement he expects against his attack on housing was seen in a surprise announcement.

Tory delegates had been led to believe that he would announce a Government-imposed means test differential rents scheme.

They were stunned when he said that this would not be forced

MADAME MESTA WHOOPS IT UP

From SHEILA LYND

AMERICA'S ex-Ambassador Extraordinary, Mrs. Perle Mesta, oil and steel millionairess and world-famous party-giver, has just completed a round of 90 "terrific parties."

The American musical "Call Me Madam" was based on Mrs. Mesta.

At Claridges, London, yesterday in a room banked with roses and cyclamen, she reckoned she had spent three months at parties during a Far East tour of "hot spots."

She is reporting on her visit to 17 countries to the State Department, and reinforcing her day-to-day log book with recordings of conversations she had with Prime Ministers. "I've got them all on my walkie-talkie," she said.

17 courses

But of what they talked, or of what she will report—except "Everything, not just the V.I.P.s"—Mrs. Mesta would say nothing.

Why Labour failed

THE report of the Wilson committee on the shocking state of Labour Party organisation will stagger both enemies and friends.

After all, the Labour Party is primarily an electoral party. If it is not good at running elections, what else is it good at?

Nevertheless, the mass of the report, with one or two minor qualifications, inculcates a very dangerous half-truth, namely, that the Labour Party failed because its organisation was bad.

Yet the outstanding thing about the last election was the failure of the voluntary workers to rally to Labour's standard.

"All reports have confirmed that voluntary workers were fewer and less enthusiastic than at any previous time."

The cause, according to the committee, was "apathy, disputes in the party, the absence of sufficiently clear differences between the parties, disillusionment with nationalisation in the way it has been presented to the public, the rationing scare—all these have played their part."

No clash

"The absence of a major clash between the parties made the personality and record of the candidate much more important."

If the report had developed these points it would have provided a much more valid explanation than it has.

Why was there no major clash between Labour and the Tories in the election?

Because at the Labour Party conferences in 1953 and 1954 the Right Wing leaders won a victory over their own rank and file.

They imposed a virtual

Arms raid an 'act of war'

THREE Irishmen were sentenced to life imprisonment the Berkshire Assizes in Reading yesterday for what Mr. Justice Cassels called "an act of war."

They were found guilty of taking part in the raid on the Arborfield R.E.M.E. depot in August. The men, white-faced, did not flinch as sentence was passed. One of them, Joseph Doyle, told the judge:

"We are soldiers of the Irish Republican Army. Those arms and ammunition were taken against the British Army of Occupation in Ireland."

"We have no regrets and do not apologise for our raid on the camp at Arborfield. Our only regret is that it was not a success."

The other two men, Donal Murphy and James Murphy, had nothing to say.

Throughout the two-day trial the men had maintained their silence—broken only yesterday when Donal Murphy cross-examined a soldier who said he had seen them on the raid.

'MURDER CHARGE'

Fifty-five sten-guns, ten Bren-guns, an automatic rifle, a revolver, and 85,000 rounds of ammunition were taken in the exploit. All were recovered, some in a van stopped the same day by Berkshire police, the rest in a basement in London's Caledonian Road.

The men were told by Mr. Justice Cassels that as they had been sentenced to life imprisonment the date of their release depended entirely upon the Secretary of State—"who may release you when he sees fit so to do, and upon such conditions as he sees fit to impose."

Referring to an assault on a sergeant at the camp, he said to them: "This court has no doubt that if resistance had been shown by that guard you, who were carrying loaded revolvers, would not have hesitated to use them."

"If you had, and if you had killed, as indeed there was a threat to do, it was difficult to see what answer you could have had to a charge of murder."

Earlier, the judge had told the jury that "we in these courts have got nothing to do with

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND--IRISH NATIONALISTS ATTACKED ARMY, POLICE AND GOVERNMENT INSTALLATIONS ACROSS NORTHERN IRELAND TODAY IN A GUN-BLAZING ATTEMPT TO SEIZE A FORTRESS FULL OF ARMS.

SENTRIES AND POLICE PATROLS FOILED THE MAIN ASSAULT ON A BRITISH ARMY REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS AT ARMAGH, BUT THE NATIONALISTS SEIZED 200 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE IN ONE OF 12 RAIDS.

THEY ALSO DESTROYED A RADIO TRANSMITTER AND DAMAGED BRIDGES.

THE RAIDS, CARRIED OUT UNDER COVER OF A BATTERING NORTHERN GALE, WAS THE BIGGEST SINGLE CAMPAIGN SINCE NORTHERN IRELAND'S SIX COUNTIES WERE SEPARATED FROM THE REST OF IRELAND 34 YEARS AGO.

NORTHERN IRELAND MOBILIZED ITS EMERGENCY FORCE OF 12,000 POLICE AND POLICE RESERVES. IN BRITAIN ITSELF THE HOME OFFICE ALERTED POLICE AND

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND--POLICE FOILED A BOMB PLOT TO BLOW UP A BRITISH NAVAL VESSEL HERE TODAY IN ANOTHER APPARENT ATTEMPT AT VIOLENCE BY THE OUTLAWED IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY.

A 200-STICK DYNAMITE TIME BOMB STUFFED INTO AN ATTACHE CASE WAS FOUND ON A DOCK WITHIN YARDS OF THE OBSOLETE BRITISH TRAINING CRUISER HMS CAROLINE. IT WAS FOUND SCANT HOURS BEFORE IT WAS SET TO GO OFF AT 3 P.M. (10 A.M. EST).

POLICE SAID IF THE BOMB HAD GONE OFF, IT "COULD HAVE BLOWN UP MOST OF THE DOCK AND SERIOUSLY DAMAGED THE TRAINING SHIP."

MEANWHILE, OTHER POLICE AND TROOPS PUSHED A MASSIVE MANHUNT FOR 12 IRA RAIDERS WHO WERE BELIEVED SURROUNDED IN THE COUNTY ANTRIM HILLS FOLLOWING A SERIES OF 13 SEPARATE RAIDS ON BRITISH AND ULSTER INSTALLATIONS YESTERDAY.

LONDON--PRIME MINISTER EDEN SAID THE SITUATION IN NORTHERN IRELAND FOLLOWING THE OUTBREAK OF RAIDS BY THE OUTLAWED IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY WAS "STILL FRAUGHT WITH DANGER."

EDEN TOOK TIME OUT FROM THE SUEZ AND OTHER CRISES TO TELL COMMONS THAT THE GOVERNMENT "RECOGNIZED THE SITUATION WAS STILL FRAUGHT WITH DANGER WHICH THE PEOPLE OF NORTHERN IRELAND HAD FACED AND WERE FACING WITH EXEMPLARY RESTRAINT."

THE LONDON GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN UNDER ATTACK BY NORTHERN IRELAND PARLIAMENTARIANS FOR ALLEGEDLY NOT TAKING A SERIOUS ENOUGH VIEW OF THE RAIDS ON NORTHERN IRELAND POLICE STATIONS AND BARRACKS.

NORTHERNERS CLAIM THAT THE ATTACKERS ARE MEMBERS OF THE I.R.A. FROM SOUTH OF THE BORDER--THE REPUBLIC OF IRELAND. THE I.R.A. HAS ALSO CLAIMED IT IS RESPONSIBLE.

"THE SAFETY OF NORTHERN IRELAND AND OF ITS INHABITANTS," EDEN SAID, "IS A DIRECT RESPONSIBILITY OF HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT WHICH THEY WILL OF COURSE DISCHARGE."

HE SAID THAT IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE OUTBREAK OF VIOLENCE ON DEC. 12, THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR IN DUBLIN EXPRESSED TO THE IRISH MINISTER OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS "THE SERIOUS VIEW WHICH HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT WOULD BE BOUND TO TAKE OF THE EVENTS."

THE IRISH GOVERNMENT IN DUBLIN ISSUED A STATEMENT DEC. 14 EXPRESSING DETERMINATION TO TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT SUCH ACTIVITIES. THE I.R.A. IS OUTLAWED IN IRELAND.

EDEN DECLINED TO MAKE A DETAILED STATEMENT ON WHAT ACTION THE IRISH GOVERNMENT WAS TAKING AND ADVISED AN OPPOSITION QUESTIONER TO REPEAT THE QUESTION TOMORROW.

A curfew threat to Ireland

THE Northern Ireland House of Commons was told yesterday by Mr. W. W. B. Topping, Minister of Home Affairs, that the Government was "actively considering" permanent blocking of roads, the imposition of a curfew in border areas, and "other steps which it would not be wise to disclose," to curb I.R.A. raiders.

Mr. Topping said that the Government was prepared "to give Eire every assistance in the attempt to bring to justice those responsible for the outrages, and to eradicate, at their source, the responsible organisations."

He declared: "It is astonishing that those who were responsible for these acts of violence have not yet learned that bullets cannot shoot beliefs. We believe in Britain and a British way of life. We are British and British we will remain."

PREMIER'S PLEDGE

The Prime Minister, Lord Brookeborough, said that he had received a telephone message from Sir Anthony Eden, who had asked him to assure the House that the defence of Northern Ireland was just as dear to the heart of the British Government as the defence of any other part of the United Kingdom.

Special measures to protect Service installations from I.R.A. raids across the border were discussed at a conference at Army headquarters in Northern Ireland yesterday.

It was reported that some families living in isolated areas on the border were moving into nearby towns at night for safety.

The B.B.C. has claimed £50,000 malicious damage compensation from Derry Corporation for the blowing up by the I.R.A. of their transmitting station in the city last Wednesday.

Police Station Bombed And Fired on by IRA

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 30 (AP).—Raiders of the Irish Republican army blew down one wall of a police station at Armagh with a bomb early today, then poured gunfire into the ruins.

Policemen on duty at the time returned the fire, but nobody on either side was injured. The raiders escaped across the border of the Irish Republic, 16 miles away, in a truck.

The illegal IRA is campaigning for the reunion of British-ruled Northern Ireland with the republic.

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND--HOME AFFAIRS MINISTER S. B. TOPPING SAID THE IRISH REPUBLIC GOVERNMENT IN DUBLIN MUST BEAR THE "MAIN RESPONSIBILITY" FOR A NATIONALIST RAID THAT KILLED A NORTHERN IRISH POLICE CONSTABLE.

THE 23-YEAR-OLD CONSTABLE, JOHN SCALLY, WAS KILLED BY SHRAPNEL LAST NIGHT WHEN EXTREMISTS BOMBED A ROYAL ULSTER CONSTABULARY BARRACKS AT BERRYLIN, IN COUNTY FERMANAGH. THE RAIDERS WERE BELIEVED TO HAVE FLED ACROSS THE BORDER INTO IRELAND, FOUR MILES AWAY.

IT WAS THE FIRST FATALITY IN A FOUR-WEEK WAVE OF IRISH NATIONALIST ATTACKS ON POLICE STATIONS AND ARMY POSTS IN NORTHERN IRELAND'S BORDER AREA.

THE NORTHERN IRISH HOME AFFAIRS MINISTER SAID IN A STATEMENT THAT SCALLY'S MURDER WAS "THE INEVITABLE OUTCOME" OF THE "CAMPAIGN OF VIOLENCE AND BLOODSHED ORGANIZED BY A SMALL NUMBER OF IRRESPONSIBLE EXTREMISTS."

"BUT AS LONG AS THE RAIDERS ARE PERMITTED TO ORGANIZE IN THE REPUBLIC (IRE), AND TO RETIRE THERE WHEN FORCED TO FLEE, THE MAIN RESPONSIBILITY FOR SUCH TRAGIC HAPPENINGS MUST REST WITH THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC," TOPPING ADDED.

A FEW HOURS AFTER TOPPING MADE HIS STATEMENT, DETECTIVES FROM DUBLIN SEIZED SEVEN MEN IN A RAID ON A FARMHOUSE JUST ACROSS THE BORDER FROM WHERE THE CONSTABLE WAS KILLED. THE MEN WERE TAKEN TO DUBLIN UNDER ARMED GUARD FOR QUESTIONING.

De Valera Urges

Help Reunion

(By Thomas P. Ryan)

Times, Mar 19)

① Irish Republican Army
① I.R.A.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire came to London for the St. Patrick's Day parade and found himself being threatened by some of the more violent of his people, IRA sympathisers. Mr. de Valera's government has detained some of the members of that worthy group who have been causing trouble between the republic and Ulster. Dev repeated again his feeling that Ireland's objectives could not be accomplished by force, and that he feels that substantial sections of the Ulster populace want reunion. He said that he would welcome the good offices of the US in mediating the dispute. The Prime Minister said that it was possible that a united Ireland might join the British Commonwealth, but without union, they would never join.

Even as he spoke, the IRA was making another raid along the border of the partitioned countries. It has been evident that the extremists from the South would not attain their objectives, but the raids have continued. Tomorrow, the voting will take place for the House of Commons in Ulster, but it is not felt that the raids will have any effect. The IRA has been using tactics that have been described as "shoot and scoot." The raiders have special hiding places in the hills near the boundary.

DE VALERA URGES U. S. HELP REUNION

Seeks Good-Offices Effort to End Partition of Ireland
—Ulster Elections Near

By THOMAS P. BONAN

Special to The New York Times

LONDON, March 18.—Eamon de Valera, Prime Minister of the Republic of Ireland, said today that he would like to see the United States use its good office to bring an end to the partition of Ireland.

At a news conference at the Irish Embassy, he was asked if he had any evidence that the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which is conducting a campaign of violence to end partition, was being financed from the United States.

"I do not know how they are financed," he replied, "but it would not be strange that some people in America should be helping, because some Irish people over there saw before they left Ireland how the division of the country was being effected."

He once again condemned use of force and said he did not think it could be successful.

But, he added, he condemned equally "the fundamental thing which is responsible—and that is the injustice which people must feel who live in certain parts of Northern Ireland."

This evidently was a reference to sections where substantial segments of the populace want reunion with the Republic of Ireland.

A reporter asked Mr. de Valera if he would be willing to bring his country into the British Commonwealth if Ireland were reunited.

He said that reunion would mean that "some adjustment" would have to be made between the North and the South and that the question of Ireland's relations with the Commonwealth would then have to be settled. He said emphatically that the Republic would not rejoin the Commonwealth unless there was reunion.

"There is no principle of right and justice on which the present division of our country can be based," he asserted.

Since his arrival Sunday for a visit in connection with St. Patrick's Day observances, Mr. de Valera has been the object of several demonstrations by I. R. A. sympathizers protesting against his Government's detention of some I. R. A. members.

He said, however, that he had not had "a moment's anxiety" since he came here.

"Small things can very easily be exaggerated and appear to be big ones," he added.

Telling another questioner that he had not heard of any threats against his life, he said:

"My heart might stop at any moment. It is no use worrying about anything that

Violence Continues

By LEONARD INGALLS

Special to The New York Times

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 18.—Guerrilla warfare along the frontier between Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland is well into the second year of its latest phase. But it appears to have little effect on the campaigns for election of a new House of Commons in Ulster. Voting will take place Thursday.

"The border," as the subject is generally described, is still the basic issue in any political contest here. It is also a religious issue.

The predominantly Roman Catholic Republic of Ireland would like to see Ireland united under a government in Dublin. The strongly Protestant North just as adamantly insists on partition and Northern Ireland's continued status as an integral part of Britain.

It was against this background that the Irish Republican Army launched its offensive along the jagged, 200-mile frontier from the South in December, 1956. Its immediate aim was to create difficulty for the pro-British Government in Northern Ireland. The ultimate goal was a united Ireland.

By the end of the first year it became clear that the extremists from the South would attain none of their goals. Yet attrition continues. A week seldom passes without at least one incident of terrorism by bands that spring from secret places in the green hills and fields along the boundary.

Their tactics have been reduced to what senior officers at headquarters of the Royal

LONDON--SCOTLAND YARD TODAY SNORTED AT A LONDON NEWSPAPER'S REPORT THAT FANATICAL IRISH REPUBLICAN GUNMEN PLAN TO KIDNAP PRINCE CHARLES BUT WOULD NOT SPECIFICALLY CONFIRM OR DENY THE REPORT.

THE LONDON DAILY HERALD SAID IN A BANNERLINE STORY THAT GUNMEN WANTED TO SEIZE THE 11-YEAR-OLD HEIR TO BRITAIN'S THRONE AS A HOSTAGE IN A SCHEME TO WIN INDEPENDENCE FOR NORTHERN IRELAND.

THE HERALD, QUOTING "IRISH SOURCES," IDENTIFIED THE GROUP AS THE FLANNA ULADH (WARRIORS OF ULSTER) AND SAID IT WAS SO FANATICAL THAT EVEN THE OUTLAWED IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY LOOKED ON IT WITH DISFAVOR.

SCOTLAND YARD SAID THE STORY OBVIOUSLY WAS DONE "BECAUSE WE REFUSED TO GIVE INFORMATION ABOUT WHY SECURITY MEASURES WERE INCREASED AT CHEAM SCHOOL" WHICH CHARLES ATTENDS.

Kidnap Prince Charles? 'Irish Plot' Is Reported

Palace Is Silent On News Story

By Richard C. Wald

From the Herald Tribune Bureau
 LONDON, Nov. 18.—London is talking today about the mystery of an alleged conspiracy by extreme Irish Nationalists to kidnap Prince Charles.

"The Daily Herald," in black letters an inch and three-quarters high, said yesterday and insisted again today that a "royal kidnap plot" has been uncovered by the police.

The man, it said, was for "the warriors of Ulster" to abduct the eleven-year-old heir to the British throne from Cheam, the preparatory school he attends southwest of London. The purpose would be "to force the British government to hand Northern Ireland over to the Irish Republic." Not a word of this appeared in any other newspaper.

At Buckingham Palace, Comdr. Richard Colville, press spokesman for the royal family, said only: "This is a matter for Scotland Yard. It is a security affair entirely. We have no comment."

Scotland Yard was scarcely more communicative. Last night it sent a memorandum to editors saying, "The Commissioner

Thus, when it was revealed by Scotland Yard over the weekend that the guard at Cheam School had been increased, the story was widely reported, but not gravely interpreted. "Owing to several instances of unauthorized persons being found in the vicinity" of the school, the precautions were necessary, the Yard said.

These unnamed persons were assumed to be photographers anxious to observe the Prince in a relaxed moment. The step to tighten the guard was taken "with the permission of Her Majesty," Queen Elizabeth II, the Yard said. The Queen and Prince Philip, her husband, are trying to assure their children of a normal childhood.

Where there had been one detective on duty at the school, there are now at least three, one of them reportedly accompanied by a large Alsatian wolf dog.

With a few more details from an unnamed source who spoke about undated shootings in Ireland, the story was repeated today apparently to the consternation of Scotland Yard and every one else concerned.

bers of Parliament from Northern Ireland had visited him yesterday to warn that there may be increased trouble on the border between the Irish Re-Public and Northern Ireland, which is part of the United Kingdom. Mr. Alport said the government is giving "urgent consideration" to the warning.

Irish Army Loses Status With People

Division Is Accepted As Likely to Linger

By Don Cook

By Wireless to the Herald Tribune
DUBLIN, June 22.—The arrest and imprisonment in recent days of the "chief of staff" of the Irish Republican Army, Sean Cronin, has reduced the I. R. A. in Ireland to a state of nuisance activity which most people here hope will die out altogether.

Mr. Cronin, a thirty-three-year-old journalist who had been underground for almost a year, was apprehended in Dublin two weeks ago when he was spotted by police officers while driving through the city. After a brief car chase he was trapped and arrested with an I. R. A. companion, Lawrence McDonnell.

Next day both were charged under Ireland's security regulations with "failure to account satisfactorily for their movements" and Mr. Cronin was sentenced to six months imprisonment. Previously he spent three months in jail from January of 1957, and was interned later that year, after his release from prison, in the major round-up of I. R. A. members ordered by the government of the Premier, now President, Eamon De Valera.

A Small Army

The "chief of staff" title of the I. R. A.—which probably numbers fewer than 200 men, of which only a few are really active—is believed to have fallen on Mr. Cronin after the arrest and imprisonment of one of the leaders of the organization last year.

When arrested this time, Mr. Cronin, in the best I. R. A. tradition, maintained a stony silence before the Irish judge and refused to explain anything or plead anything. He was not represented by a lawyer and there was no trial. There was simply a hearing under the security regulation charge, and he was off to prison for six months in a matter of minutes.

Enthusiasm Wanes

It all passed without even much notice in the Irish press, for the fact is that there is less and less enthusiasm as time goes on for men of thirty-three years of age trying to stoke up the fires of the Irish troubles of forty years ago. In fact, there is currently more I. R. A. trouble in Northern Ireland than there is in the Irish republic.

The partition of Ireland—like the division of Germany—is a fact, and an issue which no Irish politician can afford to accept or condone in any way. But equally it is also a fact with which the Irish are having to live, and there is now growing up here a tacit, candid recognition that the best way to live with it is to make the best of it. The sort of cops-and-robbers and bully-boy stuff which the I. R. A. has been staging back and forth across the borders of the six counties of Ulster does nobody any good.

It is therefore a considerable victory of common sense over political emotion for the Irish government to have dealt as firmly and effectively as it has with these "Irish patriots" over the last three years. Two more prominent ones are due to come out of prison shortly—Frank Skuse and Manus Canning—but there is reasonable hope that they, too, know that the game is over and that things will stay quiet.

Curb on IRA Arms

DUBLIN.—The FBI may be asked to cut off the supplies of arms and money which Irish police believe the outlawed Irish Republican Army is getting from the United States.

A reliable source said security authorities agreed at a top-level meeting, following Sunday's outburst of border violence, to consider an appeal to U. S. authorities.

Tommygunners firing from ambush killed one North Irish policeman and wounded three others on Sunday. Irish police believe it might mark the start of a "full-scale Christmas offensive."

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY

BORDER CAMPAIGN OFF, SAYS IRA

'VOLUNTEERS CALLED BACK: ARMS DUMPED'

N. IRELAND MEASURES TILL OUTRAGES STOP

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

DUBLIN, Monday.

THE Irish Republican Army has called off its campaign of violence against Northern Ireland, it was announced in Dublin to-night. The campaign began five years ago.

The announcement from the Republican Publicity Bureau said that all arms and other materials had been dumped. Full time "active service volunteers" had been withdrawn from activities on the border.

The chief reason for the decision was the attitude of the public, whose minds had been "distracted from the supreme issues facing the Irish people, the unity and freedom of Ireland."

Mr. Haughey, Eire Minister of Justice, welcomed the announcement. And from Belfast it was reported that Mr. Brian Faulkner, Northern Ireland Minister of Home Affairs, said: "Until the outrages are seen to be ended our security precautions will be maintained."

It is believed that no more than 200 to 300 IRA men were engaged in the guerrilla campaign. The IRA publicity service has claimed that over five years they have fought against Northern Ireland security forces numbering almost 27,000.

During the five years' campaign more than 600 operations against police patrols, Royal Ulster Constabulary barracks and transport services in Northern Ireland were conducted by the IRA. At least seven of their men were killed and 43 are in prison.

MOVEMENT TO REMAIN

SITUATION ALTERED

The announcement from the Republican Publicity Bureau tonight said:

The Resistance movement remains intact and is in a position to continue its campaign in the occupied area indefinitely.

It realises, however, that the situation obtaining in the earlier stages of the campaign has altered radically and is convinced that the time has come to conserve its resources, to augment them and to prepare a more favourable situation.

The Irish resistance movement renews its pledge of its eternal hostility to the British forces of occupation in Ireland.

It calls on the Irish people for increased support, and looks forward with confidence on co-operation with the other branches of the Republican movement to a phase of consolidation, expansion and preparation for the final and victorious phase of the struggle for the full freedom of Ireland.

FOREMOST FACTORS

Public "Distracted"

The decision to end the Resistance campaign had been taken in view of the general situation. Foremost among the factors was the attitude of the general public, whose minds had been deliberately distracted from the supreme issue facing the Irish people, the unity and freedom of Ireland.

The statement went on to say that other and lesser issues had been urged successfully upon the public and the sacrifices which could win freedom in the political, cultural, social and economic spheres, were now stated to be necessary to bolster up the partition system forced on the Irish people by Britain 40 years ago.

FORCE OF 300

600 Operations

It has never been disclosed how many IRA men took part in the campaign, but police sources believe that no more than 200 to 300 were actively concerned in the guerrilla tactics. Their publicity service has claimed that for over five years they have fought against 5,000 British Regular troops, 5,000 Territorials, and 12,400 Special policemen and 3,000 regulars, and 1,500 sundry security forces.

During the five years' campaign over 600 operations against police patrols, strongpoints, communication and transport services in the north, had been conducted by the IRA, and they claim that they have killed six policemen and wounded 22.

It is unlikely that there will be any relaxation of vigilance or of the measures to suppress the organisation by the Eire Government.

In welcoming the announcement the Eire Minister for Justice said he hoped there would be a substantial response to his recent offer of an arms amnesty which remains open until the end of March.

Students at City College Form Chapter of I.R.A.

A student chapter of the Irish Republican Army, which is outlawed in Ireland, was chartered at City College yesterday according to the organization's president, Fergus Madigan Bordewich.

"There are all of eight Irishmen in the school," Mr. Bordewich said in explaining why a Jewish student, Ivan Schmukler, is the club secretary. "He's as concerned as we are."

The group's aim, Mr. Bordewich said, is to "fulfill and promote the Irish revolution and to regain the still British counties of Northern Ireland." The club, which has about 25 members, plans to raise funds for the I.R.A. by selling buttons reading, "England get out of Ireland—Support the I.R.A."

Mr. Bordewich said he did not expect the college's president, Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, to interfere with the club's activities, although Dr. Gallagher was described as an "Orange Man" from Northern Ireland.

The New Left Comes to Northern Ireland

Ulster's Militants Draw Inspiration From American Idots

By Karl E. Meyer

Washington Post Foreign Service

BELFAST, Jan. 22—"No one has been killed yet—it is almost a miracle. But sooner or later, someone may die, and I shudder to think what could happen next." The words were spoken by a young militant. The sentiment is shared by a majority of the 1.5 million people of Northern Ireland. The precariousness of the political situation in this fortress of Protestantism makes Ulster easily the most fascinating—yet terrifying—place in the British Isles. Only a half century ago communal conflict in Northern Ireland came perilously close to civil war. It could happen again.

The paramount impression that an American visitor gets in Northern Ireland is that the pace of events is being forced by militants—mostly Catholic, some Protestant and nearly all under 30—whose aims and tactics are inspired by the international protest movement. The present conflict is more than another wrangle between orange and green. The militants here have specific social and political goals that go beyond religious arguments.

Civil rights demonstrators in Ulster do not sing "A Nation Once Again" but "We Shall Overcome." They don't talk about the Easter Rising but about Paris or Chicago. They don't quote Parnell or Pearse or other standard Irish martyrs—they quote Marcuse and Martin Luther King.

But, in this backwater of

THE REV. IAN PAISLEY
... Protestant extremist history, their most obstinate adversaries are closer to Oliver Cromwell than to the twentieth century. Thousands of Protestants—and not just the cranky followers of the anti-papist Rev. Ian Paisley—honestly believe that Dublin and Rome are behind the militants and all the trouble in Ulster.

Thus the views of the young militants are only part of the story, but since their role may be decisive it is worth listening to their voices and heeding carefully their fears as well as their hopes.

Austin Curry, 25, is a representative leader, a Catholic of working-class background who since 1964 has been a Nationalist MP in Ulster's little parliament in Stormont.

"They're putting out the same old stuff," he says. "The Ulster police claim that the demonstrations are all an I.R.A. plot, and they produce a document dated last November to prove it. That's bloody nonsense—the Irish Republican Army has nothing to do with it.

"In point of fact, I was first to advocate use of non-violent protests. I did it at a party meeting last June. We had already been using squatting tactics to protest unfair allocation of public housing, and I helped organize the first civil rights marches last August.

"I was obviously influenced by Martin Luther King, and also by Gandhi. Of course, we have a minority that favors violence, but they can be controlled. We're learning from our experience, and have developed techniques of crowd control—you've got to have adequate amplification for speakers and official arm-bands for marshals.

"We couldn't get anywhere with normal protest tactics. Now the government has begun to do something, though it is too little and far too late. The pressure must be kept up. Of course I recognize the dangers—if the government can't control the Paisleyites there is a danger the marches will inflame sectarianism. But there is worse danger of indifference."

The campaign received world attention in Londonderry last Oct. 5 when Protestant diehards brawled with demonstrators. The march was organized by the local Citizens Action Committee, whose chairman is Ivan Cooper, 25, a Protestant and manager of a shirt factory:

"Before Oct. 5," he says, "they called us young idealists or middle-class reactionaries. But in a few months we've gotten more changes than in 50 years. The violence against us has helped us."

"Martin Luther King has been a powerful influence on all of us. I have tapes of his speeches, and in fact begin one of my own this way: 'I have a dream. My dream is that Catholics and Protestants will one day live together in a mature Ireland.'"

The vice chairman of the committee is John Hume, 31, Catholic father of four, who is deemed the outstanding moderate in the movement. He says:

"Violence would encourage the sectarian spirit that has been the curse of Ireland. But speaking frankly the people who would be most likely to bring it about are the right-wingers in the Unionist Party. This is why it is urgent for the moderates in the party to grant the demands of our movement—the most important being an end to gerrymandering and unequal voting in local elections." (There are other hindrances to free voting in Ulster.)

But in Belfast, militants have aims that go far beyond electoral reform. Working in a protest group called People's Democracy, these dissenters want a are property requirements wholesale reconstruction of Northern Ireland on socialist lines, something that is about as immediately feasible as electing Stokely Carmichael governor of Alabama. A reflective leader of the movement is Kevin Boyle, 25, a Cambridge graduate who teaches law at Queens University in Belfast.

"You have to understand that students object to the logic that our elders have abided by for 40 years. Students are the least likely to accept the arguments of political expediency, though it is true our movement underestimated the power of the backlash."

"About 300 or 400 come to our meetings and I should say they are about half Protestant, half Catholic. We are trying to break through the old structure of Ulster politics—after all, even Paisley Protestants are working-class. We have a job of conversion to do."

"We regard ourselves as the only group that can overcome the old polarization, and it is nonsense to say that our campaign is an I.R.A. plot. You could more accurately say it was an American plot. We follow American experience closely—in fact, we picked up some useful tips on crowd control from an article in Esquire Magazine."

These are some of the representative voices among demonstrators in Ulster—and they are surely new voices in Irish politics. Whatever happens, they will be heard in 1969.

RE: UNSUB;
LETTER RECEIVED BY H. J. HEINZ CO.
1052 PROGRESS STREET, PITTSBURGH, PA., 1/15/76;
EXTORTION
(OO: PG)

On 1/15/76 a handprinted letter was received by the H. J. Heinz Company, 1052 Progress St., Pittsburgh, Pa. This is the headquarters for the Heinz Company. This letter reads as follows:

"It's the greatest possible feeling of absolute power to know in advance that you follow protocol and that protocol demands that all of our warnings be ignored. You will feel, hear and partially see the results of our more powerful I.R.A. bombs. Your only remaining hope is that Jesus Christ will waste no time to rush forward and help you in his vaguest sort of way and certainly in his most useless sort of way.

s/ I.R.A."

The envelope bore the address "H. J. Heinz Company, 1052 Progress Street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15212," and the wording "Season's Greetings!" It was postmarked at New York City on 1/13/76.

Members of the IIA in New York have completed plans to become effective if and when war breaks on the other side to blow up the building in which the British Consulate in New York is situated by introducing carbide into the boiler or compressor system of the building. In contact with water, carbide gives off large amounts of pure acetylene gas, which under pressure and in the pure state will explode on the slightest provocation. The introduction of a few pounds of carbide into the boiler system would be adequate to blow up the building. This plan is workable since carbide may be bought anywhere without question and handled with complete safety.

Outbreaks of a similar nature are planned for docks and streets.

USE OF FORM 0-73

1. Only incoming teletype messages which require transmission relay may be prepared for transmission using form 0-73. Use of form 0-73 is restricted to incoming teletype messages received within the last 3 days which require transmission relay; all other teletype messages must be prepared using form 0-93.
2. Additions such as notes and administrative data for a specific addressee are not allowed. If a note or administrative data is required for a particular addressee a separate 0-73 form must be prepared.
3. The message will be transmitted just as it appears. The person approving the message is solely responsible for assuring all necessary editing changes have been made.

PREPARATION OF FORM WHICH CONSISTS OF A PREPRINTED YELLOW.

1. Complete appropriate boxes: date, classification & precedence.
2. List addresses immediately following the "TO" or place a check mark in the appropriate box.
3. Type or PRINT the subject in the space provided.
4. Print or type originator's name, room number and telephone extension.
5. Indicate approval for transmission by initialing the "Approved By" box.

COMMUNICATIONS SECTION

PREPARATION OF MESSAGE TO BE TRANSMITTED

1. Xerox 1 copy of incoming teletype message. A notation shall be made on the original incoming teletype "1 copy made for relay to SACS _____, (OR LEGATS) _____, (OR GOVERNMENT AGENCIES) _____."
2. Minor editing changes shall be made on the xerox as follows: using a lead pencil ONLY draw single line through the first and last lines of the heading and connect these lines from top right to bottom left forming a "Z," figure. (DO NOT OBLITERATE THE HEADING.) Use horizontal lines to delete sentences or words. Printed changes of a word or two to the text of the message may be made; however, changes to the existing text involving more than a word or two necessitate the originator to initiate a new message using form 0-93.
3. Administrative data or notes may be typed immediately following the text and will be transmitted to all addressees.
4. When using the 0-73 form to disseminate information to field offices, Legal Attaches and other Government agencies simultaneously, the text, notes and administrative data must be identical for all addressees.
